

Hindu Religion and Moral Education

Class Seven

NATIONAL CURRICULUM AND TEXTBOOK BOARD, BANGLADESH

Hindu Religion and Moral Education

Class Seven

Written by

Professor Dr. Paresh Chandra Mandal

Professor Dr. Dulal Kanti Bhowmik

Bishnu Das

Dr. Dharendra Nath Tarafder

Dr. Shishir Mallik

Shikha Das

Edited by

Professor Niranjana Adhikary

Translated by

Goutam Roy

Ranjit Kumar Mazumder

Published by

The National Curriculum and Textbook Board
69-70, Motijheel Commercial Area, Dhaka-100

[All rights reserved by the publisher]

First Publication	:	December, 2012
Revised Edition	:	November, 2014
Reprint	:	August, 2017

Design

National Curriculum and Textbook Board, Bangladesh

For free distribution by the Government of the People's Republic of Bangladesh

Printed by :

Preface

The aim of secondary education is to make the learners fit for entry into higher education by flourishing their latent talents and prospects with a view to building the nation with the spirit of the Language Movement and the Liberation War. To make the learners skilled and competent citizens of the country based on the economic, social, cultural and environmental settings is also an important issue of secondary education.

The textbooks of secondary level have been written and compiled according to the revised curriculum 2012 in accordance with the aims and objectives of National Education Policy-2010. Contents and presentations of the textbooks have been selected according to the moral and humanistic values of Bengali tradition and culture and the spirit of Liberation War 1971 ensuring equal dignity for all irrespective of caste and creed of different religions and sex.

The present government is committed to ensure the successful implementation of Vision 2021. Honorable Prime Minister, Government of the People's Republic of Bangladesh, Sheikh Hasina expressed her firm determination to make the country free from illiteracy and instructed the concerned authority to give free textbooks to every student of the country. National Curriculum and Textbook Board started to distribute textbooks free of cost since 2010 according to her instruction.

The current version of Hindu Religion and Moral Education has been introduced in line with the National Curriculum 2012. The book priorities application of theories, rules and regulations of Hindu religion in learners' personal life. It also emphasizes on reflecting the rich traditions and cultures of Hindu religion in their day to day practices. In addition, there are discussions about ideals and philosophies of myths, religious personalities, prophets, and saints along with prophesy. It is hoped that these will arouse moral values including honesty, liberal attitudes, dutifulness, courage, tolerance, accommodating nature, respect towards women, secular beliefs, democratic values, patriotism, equity and brotherhood among the learners.

I thank sincerely all for their intellectual labor who were involved in the process of revision, writing, editing, art and design of the textbook.

Prof. Narayan Chandra Saha

Chairman

National Curriculum and Textbook Board, Bangladesh

Contents

Chapter	Title	Page
One	The Nature of God	1-9
Two	Religious Books	10-19
Three	The Nature and the Beliefs of Hindu Religion	20-30
Four	Nityakarma and Yogasan	31-38
Five	Worship of gods and goddesses	39-48
Six	Moral Teachings in Religious myths	49-57
Seven	Some Ideal Biographies	58-79
Eight	Hinduism and Moral Values	80-88

Chapter One

The Nature of God

There is a creator of all animals and things of this cosmos. We call him our creator or God. He is one and only. He has no shape but he can appear in the shape of an avatar or god and goddess. These are his the incarnated forms of the God. This chapter is on the 'Creator', the meaning of God, the nature of God and the oneness of God.

By the end of this chapter we will be able to

- explain the meaning of the words Creator and God.
- explain the idea of God with and without any bodily shape.
- describe the incarnation of God.
- explain the oneness of God.
- explain and tell an easy Sanskrit sloka about the form of God from the Shreemadbhagavad Gita with its simple meaning.
- realise the oneness of God in spite of His various shapes or incarnation and have the inspiration to worship Him.

Lesson 1: The meaning of the Creator and God

The creator means one who creates. For example, a potter can make clay items toys, idols etc. by clay but he cannot create clay. Like this, we cannot create water, river, ocean, moon, sun, star, creatures etc. He who has created all these is called the creator. There is an infinite power behind the creation of all these things. By virtue of this unlimited power all are moving in a systematic way. He is called the creator who possesses this vast power. We call this creator God.

The word God means "Prabhu". He is almighty. He controls this universe systematically. He is the only source of all powers and qualities. He creates the light of the sun. He lives in the creatures as soul. He is the only master of creation, existence and nourishment. He has confined the life by the boundary of death. Thus he rules over the creatures and the world. This is why he is called the Creator. He has no birth, he is self-born. He has no end so he is eternal. He has no destruction so he is immortal.

In the Hindu Religion we call God by various names such as Brahma, Ishwar, Bhagaban, Paramatma etc. There are many religious beliefs in world - Islam, Buddhism, Christianity, Shikhism etc. The creator is called by different names in different religions, such as Allah, Khoda, God etc.

Individual work: Explain the relation between the creator and God.

Lesson 2 and 3: The Nature of God: Shape & Shapeless

There are many things in the world, which have specific shapes, like the creatures of God-human beings, animals and trees. There are also other things which have no shapes.

Like- air, water, sound, smell etc.

God has no shape. He is invisible but we feel his existence. So God is almighty. He can take any shape or form by virtue of his own unlimited and supreme power. The visible figures of God has come out in many ways.

1. These shapes are the incarnation of gods and goddesses.
2. When God Himself lives in creatures as soul, he is called Jibatma.

Avatar

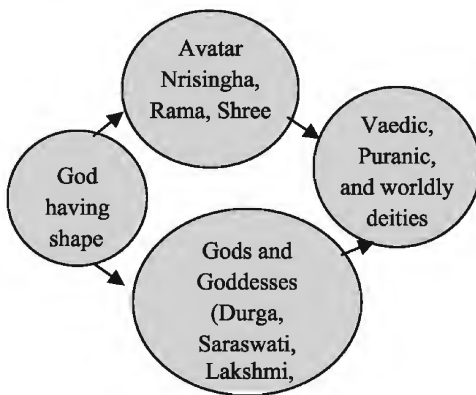

Whenever there is a degradation of religion that is when Human life is depressed by wrong and injustices and evils rise up, there is a predominant rise of impiety, God descends upon the world in any incarnation. The word descend means to come down'. God descends upon the world for a special motive. Then he is called incarnation or avatar. God descended as Ram during the Treta Yuga. Being Ram-Avatar He restored religion, justice and truth and gave punishment to the evil forces including Ravana. In the era of Dwapar God or Bhagawan Himself came down as Sreekrishna in this world. Others are partial incarnation of God. On the other hand, Sreekrishna is full incarnation of Ishwar. So it is said- Sreekrishna Bhagavan Swayam'-Sreekrishna himself is Bhagavan.

Gods and Goddesses

To fulfill some specific purpose of society, when the shapeless God takes shapes of some specific bodies, we call them gods or goddesses. Therefore, it can be said that gods and goddesses are corporeal shape of special qualities or power of God. For example, Brahma is the God of creation. Again, God protects and fosters the whole world as Vishnu. He keeps the balance of the world through destructions as Shiva. On the other hand, Durga is the goddess of power, Saraswati is the goddess of knowledge, Lakshmi is the goddess of riches etc. Gods and goddesses are the parts of God; so if we satisfy them God will be satisfied.

Jivatma

When God lives as soul in any living being, He is called Jivatma. Regarding God's existence in human beings Rabindranath Tagore says in one of his poems:

*"simar majhe, asim, tumi bajao apan sur.
amar moddheh tomar prakash tai ato madhur."*

It means that Parmatma or God exists as Jivatma within the boundary of human body. Swami Vivekananda says that God lives before us in many forms. Here 'many forms' indicates many forms of God. So it is obvious that God is shapeless but he can possess a shape (Sakar Rupa) that includes avatar, gods and goddesses, and living creatures. All these forms are none but God. They are different manifestations of God, who is one and only.

Individual work : Identify two qualities of Sakar rupa of God.

Lesson 4 and 5: Oneness of God

We have known from the former lessons that the nature of God is revealed in many ways. He is one and only. And he does not have any particular shape. He is entitled with many names by the followers of different religious practices. The shapeless form of God is called Brahma. As he is kind and compassionate, we call him Vagaban (also Vagawan).

Again, God descends upon the world taking the shape of someone or something to control the criminals and to save the good people as well as to establish the truth and justice. Then, He is Avatar. For example, Shreeram, Shreekrishna, Matsaya Abatar etc. On the other hand, when any quality or power of God is expressed through a bodily shape we call the shape god or goddess (devta) such as Brahma, Bishnu and Shiva. There are three main forms of God for three purposes. God creates as Brahma, nurtures as Bishnu and keeps balance as Shiva destroying living beings and other worldly things. Devi Durga shows the power of God. God gives us knowledge as Saraswati Devi.

The devotees worship god and goddess. They offer prayers and appreciations to have their blessings.

So questions may arise - Is Ishwar many? The answer is 'No'. He is one and only. He has no shape. But he can take shapes. It has been said in Rigveda, 'Akom sad Bipra Bahudha Badanti' (1/64/46). A Brahma is called many names by Brahmins. It is also said 'Akom Santan Bahudha Kalpaanti' (1/114/5) The saints call and worship Ishwar in many names. However all these worships are dedicated to God. All our worships go to Him.

It has been said in the Gita -

1. Even those who are, devoted to other Gods, worship them with faith, they also worship Me alone. 9/23
2. God is the enjoyer as also the lord of all sacrifice. 9/24
3. Howsoever men approach Me, even so I approach them; My path do men follow in all things. (4/11)

So, not only the followers of Hindu Religion but also the followers of other religions worship the same Ishwar according to their own ways and beliefs. This is the oneness of God. Though Ishwar does not have any shape, He sometimes desires to take shapes to reveal His varied power.

Individual work: Give five reasons about the oneness of Ishwar.

Lesson 6: Verses on the nature of Ishwar from the Shree Madbhagavad Gita vayuryamoh, agnirvarunah sasankah prajapatistvam prapitamahasal.

namo namaste hastu sahasrakritwva

punasca bhuyo, epi namo namast. 11/39

Meaning: You are vayu, Yama, agni, Varuna the moon prajapati, and the Great Grandfather. I bow to you thousands times. I bow to you again and again.

Explanation: Arjuna has told this statement to Shreekrishna in the chapter eleven by the name of "The Universal Form". Shreekrishna Himself is Iswara. Here the nature of Ishwara has been expressed. Here Yama, Agni, Barun, Chandra are mentioned as instance to show how they are different manifestations of God. He is Brahma, the deity (Devta) of creation, as well as the creator of Brahma. Here the endless power of God has been expressed with his power of creation. The power of all gods together signifies his own power. He is the Almighty. He does not have any shape but He can take any shape. So highest respect has been expressed giving reverence to this self-born, endless, all powerful God.

Shree Madvagbat Gita

Word Meaning:

Yama : god of death

Agni : god of power

Barun : god of water and sky

Shashanka: The Moon

Prajapati: Brahma.

Praja : Creation Prajapati is the another name of Brahma.

Prapitamaha: Grandfather = Brahma is called grandfather (Pitamaha), Prapitamaha (great grandfather) means the father of father . Here God is said pitamaha that means he the father or creator of Brahma.

ExerciseFill in the gaps.

1. He who creates is the
2. There is no of God.
3. The god who saves and protects the living beings is
4. Amar majhe tomar prakash tai ato
5. descended this earth with a view to establishing justice and truth.

Match the phrases in the left side with those in the right side.

Left Side	Right Side
1. There is a immeasurable	force working behind all creations.
2. We feel the	worship Him differently.
3. God takes bodily shape	through different gods, goddesses, and avatars.
4. Brahma is one but	the Brahmins call Him with different names. existence of God.

Answer the questions below in brief.

1. 'God is behind all creations' - explain the statement with examples.
2. Explain - why God appears in the world as avatars?
3. "Ishwar is before us in many forms"- explain this statement of Swami Vivekananda with example.
4. Explain the sakar rupa of God with example.

Answer the questions below.

1. Explain the nature of Ishwar with example.
2. 'All bodily shapes of Ishwara express different manifestations of God.' Analyse the statement.

Multiple Choice Questions

1. What do you mean by the word Ishwar?
(a) knowledge (b) Lord
(c) praise (d) adoration
2. Which of the below has a form?
(a) air (b) light
(c) sound (d) trees
3. What is the reason of appearing God as an avatar in the world?
i. to punish the miscreants
ii. to ensure welfare of living beings
iii. to enjoy the beauty

Which of the below is right?

- (a) i and ii (b) ii and iii
(c) i and iii (d) i, ii and iii

Read the passage below and answer the questions number 4 and 5.

Everyday Spandan goes to school after he has read a book which is instructive and which has the unique combination of work, knowledge and devotion.

4. Which book does Spandan read everyday?

- (a) Ramayana (b) Manasamangal
(c) Shree Shreei Chandi (d) Shree Madbhagavat Gita

5. After reading the above mentioned book Spandan will be able to realize –

- i. soul is immortal.
ii. We should not give up Karma, but addiction to anything.
iii. The nature of God.

Which is right of the following?

- (a) i and ii (b) ii and iii
(c) i and iii (d) i, ii and iii

Creative Questions

1. Establishing the statue of Lakshmi Devi in her house, Anita Rani worships her daily with great devotion. On the contrary, establishing the statue of Gour-Nitai, her neighbour Shiladevi worships them daily with great devotion. Their children also follow them besides their own studies. Therefore peace and happiness ever prevails in their house.

- (a) Who is the full incarnation (avatar) of Ishwar?
(b) How does Ishwar dominate over living beings and the world? Explain.
(c) Which forms of God are reflected in the worships of Anita Rani and Shiladevi? Explain it on the basis of your studied lesson.
(d) Though there is difference of statues in the worships of Anita Rani and Shiladevi, they ultimately worship the same God. Analyse the inner significance of this statement on the basis of your studied lesson.

Chapter Two

Religious Books

Religious books contain religion sermons as well as suggestions for human welfare. Greatness of God, myths of gods and goddesses, and different educative stories about life and society are included in these books. Studying religious books is beneficial for us. The Veda, the Upanishad, the Purana, the Ramayana, the Mahavarata, the Shreemadvagavad Gita, the Shree Shree Chandi are some of our religious books. The Veda is our original religious book. We will learn about the Purana and the Chandi from this chapter.

After we have finished this chapter, we will be able to

- explain the meaning and ideas of the Purana.
- give a short introduction to the Purana and explain its subject matters.
- describe Shree Chandi as part of the Markendeya Purana.
- narrate a fable from Shree Chandi and explain its teaching.
- analyse the influence of the Purana in religious and moral practices.
- be inspired to lead an honest life following the teaching of Purana.

Lesson 1: Purana

Purana is one of the important books of Hindu religion. The word 'Purana' means the old or the ancient. But here the word 'Purana' has special meaning. Purana is a religious book with special characteristics. It tells us about the Veda based Hindu religion and society through many discussions. They are on the creation of the universe, myths of gods and goddesses, heritage of the saints and kings, geographical feature of the world, significance of holy places, act of donation, religious vow, penance, Ayurveda etc. The Purana is not only one book but it is the collection of books. So Purana should be called Granthabali, a collection of books, instead of a book. The writer of the Mahavarata, Maharshi Krishnadawaipayon Bayashadeva, was the writer of the Puranas too. The Puranas are composed in a narrative style. As human beings love story, the Purana tells stories. The aims of these stories are to teach religious and moral education. The subject matter of the Puranas is to give advice and moral education through stories that are beneficial to a decent life. There are many Puranas. The number of main Puranas is eighteen. They are 1. Brahma Purana 2. Padma Purana 3. Bishnu Purana 4. Shiva Purana or Baiu Purana 5. Bhagavad Purana 6. Narad Purana 7. Markendeya Purana 8. Agni Purana 9. Vabishya Purana 10. Brahmabaibarta Purana 11. Baraha Purana 12. Linga Purana 13. Skanda Puran 14. Baman Purana 15. Kurma Purana 16. Matsya Purana 17. Garura Purana 18. Brahma Purana. Some smaller puranas are also composed following the main Purana such as Bishnu Dhormottar Purana. The Puranas especially highlight the greatness of three deities. They are Brahma, Bishnu an Shiva.

Individual work: Write down the names of the Purans.

Lesson 2: The subject matter of the Purana

Puranas are distinguished with many features. The features of Purana have been mentioned in scriptures in the flowing way sargashca pratisargashca bansho manwantarani cha banshanucharitamnchaia puranam panchalakshanam. (The Baiupurana)

It means that the Puranas have five aspects - sarga, pratisarga, bangsha, manwantara and banshanucharita. Sarga means creation. How the world has been created is described in Purans in the form of a story. Pratisarga means recreation. After the destruction of the living world, the world is recreated again. This recreation is called Pratisarga. The description of gods and saints are Bansha.

The world is destructed after every time it is created. And then new creations emerge. Monu is the first man of every such creation.

Thus the universe has experienced fourteen Monus. The time between two Monus is called Manwantar. Bansanucharita is the biography of gods and goddesses, saints or the famous kings. Besides Barnashrama (caste system), religious functions, sraddha (process of cremation and salvation), donation, puja, vow (brata) and the description of holy places etc are narrated here. On the whole the religion and life of that time have been reflected in the Puranas. The importance of Puranas is endless in our religion and life. It is needless to say that there are a lot of stories, fables, advices and narration of the ups and downs of life in Puranas.

Individual work: Identify the subject-matter of the Puranas.

Lesson 3: The role of the Puranas in religions and moral practices

The importance of the Puranas in our daily and social life is endless. In ancient tradition the Puranas are considered religious books. According to the ancient religious beliefs, truth, non-violence, forgiveness, peace and dedication ultimately provide the special place for a human being or make him/her dignified. Based on these qualities there are lots of advices in the Puranas to make life beautiful. These advices make us conscious about morality. They help us follow the paths of religion. It is our duty to remember God always. If we do this, sins will stay away from us. The paths of religion will lead us to Bishnuloka of the heaven after our death. The Puranas discuss the eternal Vedic ideals, monotheism, social customs and how to get rid of the caste-distinctions.

It has been said earlier that the Puranas discuss too many varied stories of the ups and downs of human life. Some of them are Dakshajangya, Ashwamedh jangya, the killing of Mahisasur. These heroic fables inspire us to make our life beautiful and decent.

Individual work: What steps will you take to make the life beautiful being inspired by the teachings of the Puranas?

Lesson 4: Shree Shree Chandi

The Shree Shree Chandi is a remarkable book for the followers of Hinduism. It was not composed separately. The Shree Shree Chandi is the part of the Markendeya Purana. Chapters 83 to 95 of the Markendeya Purana are named the Shree Shree Chandi. This part of the Markendeya Purana is called Devimahatmya. There are seven hundred mantras in the Shree Shree Chandi. So its another name is Saptashoti. In spite of being a part of the Mahavarata the Gita is considered a separate book, the Chandi is also considered a separate book though it is a part of the Markendeya Purana by virtue of its subject-matter and composition. The history of the king Surath, Samadhi Baishya, Devi Mahamaya, Devi Durga, Devi Ambika along with the history and nobility of Devi Kalika have been described in the Shree Chandi. The Chandi is especially read at the Durga Puja and Basanti Puja. The Chandi is also a commonly read book like the Gita.

According to Purana King Surath at first started worshipping the goddess in the Spring (Basantakal). For this the name of this puja is Basantipuja. The way Durga Puja is celebrated now in autumn is actually the okalbodhon (untimely convocation) of the Devi. Shree Rama Chandra arranged this puja in the autumn before his war with Ravana to rescue abducted Sita. In course of time the tradition of celebrating the autumnal Durga Puja has got more importance and popularity. Goddess Durga also brings autumnal notes with her when she comes to this world. Durga stays in this world on the sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth day of a lunar bright fortnight.

Team work: Describe some features of the Shree Shree Chandi.

New words : convocation, biography

Lesson 5: The significance of the Shree Shree Chandi worship

In ancient time there was a king named Suratha in Chaitra clan. Once he was deposed by enemies. Then King Suratha started roaming from one forest to another one leaving the country. After a few days he came to Medha Muni's hermitage. He had sad feelings for his lost kingdom and for his people. At the same time a Baishya named Samadhi came to that forest. He earned vast property by business. But his wife and sons wanted to spend that money in dishonest ways. His wife and sons insulted him for his interference on this matter. So he also came to the forest with sorrow in his mind. But he could not forget them who had caused him sorrow. Even leaving the family he was feeling pains for them. He was unable to forget them too. He could not understand the reasons of that pain and attraction.

King Surath and Samadhi Baisya shared their story with each other. They realized that they had similar experiences. Together they went to Medha Muni. They asked him, "Why is it so? The hermit (muni) said, "This is the rule of the world?" It's because of Maya that takes place with the influence of Mahamaya. Mahamaya does welfare and gives salvation to mankind if she is satisfied. King Surath asked the hermit, "Who is Mahamaya? What is her nature?"

Medha Muni started telling that this world is a representation of Mahamaya but she is 'constant and universal'. She has no destruction. She saves us from all kinds of dangers. Medha Muni also said that Mahamaya, Durga, Ambika and Kalika all these goddesses are ultimately one goddess, Mahamaya. She brings peace to the world destroying demons and giants. Other gods and goddesses paid homage to her with appreciation. King Surath and Samadhi Baishwa learnt the importance of the goddess and the way to worship her from Medha Muni. Then they together started worshipping the Devi making an earthen statue. Devi became happy with them. After a few days King Surath got his lost kingdom back with the kindness of the Devi. Samadhi Baishwa did not want anything from Devi. He lost his fascination for wealth. He only wanted salvation from sorrow. He wanted inner power. Devi blessed him with peace and salvation.

Ya Devi Sarbabhuteshu Saktirupen Sansthita

Namastasaiya Namastasaiya Namastasaiya Namonama. (Chandi 5/32, 33 & 34)

This means that the goddess who stays as power in every living being as power, I offer many pranam to her.

Individual work: Identify that causes for what the king Surath and Baishya Samadhi left the house.

Lesson 6 : The Killing of Mahishasur

Shree Shree Chandi or Mahamaya saves gods and mankind from many dangers. A story is described in this context.

Long ago there was a war between gods and demons. Then the king of the gods was Indra and the king of dityas (demons) was Mahishasur. The demons were defeating the gods. So Mahishasur had no bound of his joy. He became the king of the heaven. Headed by Devaraj Indra the defeated gods went to Brahma. Brahma listened to their sorrows. Then they went to Vishnu and Shiva and informed them of the sorrows of gods. Listening the sorrows and pathetic story Brahma, Bishnu and Maheshawara got much pain and they were very angry. Then tremendous glow started coming out from the body of Brahma, Bishnu, Shiva and others gods. A divine statue of a woman image was created out of that united glow of the gods. It was the image of Devi Durga. All the gods offered her ornaments and weapons to decorate her. Then 'Giriraj Himalaya' gave her a lion for riding. gods cheered up with joy and all the saints started praising her. Hearing the tremendous roaring the demons rushed towards her. Then a war took place between the gods and demons. Chikshur the commander-in-chief of Mahishasur and great warrior Chamar were fighting with complete army force. But Devi Durga was alone. It didn't matter. Innumerable soldiers were created from the powerful breath of the Devi. Then chikur and chaurar, and all other soldiers were killed by the weapons of the Devi. Chikur and Chamar with all the soldiers died by the weapon of the Devi. Afterwards Mahishasur himself took part in the war with Devi. There war a tremendous war between Devi Durga and Mahishasur. At last Devi killed Mahishasur with a spear. The deities regained their heaven.

Individual work: Describe the inference of the teaching of the killing of Mahishasur in your daily life.

Lesson 7: The killing of Shumbha and Nishumbha

Once upon a time a demon named Shumbha occupied the heaven defeating the god. He became the lord of the heaven, earth and the underworld. His brother

Nishumbha, commander-in-chief Chanda, Munda, Raktabija created reign of terror. In that situation, through prayers the gods were able to satisfy the Devi and from her anger Devi (goddess) Ambika appeared. Devi had a black complexion this time. She became known as Kalika. Shumbha, Nishumbha, Raktabija, Chanda and Munda all were defeated and killed by Kalika or Ambika.

Deities regain their lost kingdom. Thus Devi Mahamaya not only saved the deities but also did good for all mankind.

Individual work: Make a list of dead demons who were killed by Kalika and Ambika.

Lesson 8: The teaching of the Shree Shree Chandi

In the first part of Shree Shree Chandi we find that Sri Vishnu could bring peace killing Madhu-Kaoitava. In the middle part Devi Durga, who was created from the power of the deities, killed Mahishasur and demons. The gods thus regained their lost heaven. In later part Devi Ambika and Kalika killed Shumbha, Nishumbha and other demons. In fact, Devi Durga is the symbol of God's power. We get many teachings from the mentioned stories.

Shree Shree Chandi gives us power and valour. Devi Durga controlled the evils. Following the teaching of Shree Shree Chandi we too will resist injustice. We know it was the united power of the deities that helped them regain the heaven. We also know that Mahamaya Shree Shree Chandi is, in fact, the combined power of the deities. It proves the victory of unity. Along side it shows the power of feminine-force. Women are given special status in Hindu religion. They are treated specially. Shree Shree Chandi or Devi Durga is established as a mother-power. She is the symbol of the women power. She is kind like our mother.

We get inspiration to save our society and country from the hand of the enemy through the adoration of Shree Shree Chandi. For the removal of all sorts of sorrows and anxieties we worship her. She is Shreedurga because she is durgotinashini (who dispels distress, misery). We offer our pranam to her saying

Sarbamangal mangalaya shive sarbartha sadhike '
Sharaneya trambake Gouri Narauni namohastute ''

Meaning: You provide all sorts of welfare. You are benevolent. You accomplish all sorts of desires. You are the shelter of the world. You are three-eyed. You are Gour. You are Narayani. Oh Goddess I offer my pronam (salute) to you.

Devi Durga saves the person who seeks her shelter. She does all sorts of welfare. We shall also follow her ideals. We too will save one who comes for shelter and will stand beside the helpless persons. We will destroy the power of the beast living in our mind. We will resist injustice to establish the ideal values and a nice society.

Group work: "The teaching of Shree Shree Chandi can destroy the individual's demonism"- give your logic with examples.

Exercise

Fill in the gaps.

1. The word 'Purana' means
2. Chandi is a part of..... Purana.
3. is recited at the time of Basanti Puja.
4. Surath was a king of clan.
5. Ya devi shaktirupen sanshathita.

Join the phrases in the left side with those in the right side.

Left side	Right side
1. The Purana suggests	from any kind of danger.
2. Another name of Shree Shree Chandi is	the Veda.
3. Mahamaya saves everyone	Shoptoshoti.
4. A woman image was created from	the celestial rays of the deities.
5. The oldest religious book in Hinduism is	Shree Gouranga.
	better life for the human beings.

Answer the following questions below in short.

Questions:

1. Explain the idea of religious books with examples.
2. Explain how you will utilise the basic teachings of the Purans.
3. Why did King Surath lose his kingdom?
4. What was the purpose of killing Mahishashur?

Answer the questions below:

1. Explain the necessity of reading the Puranas.
2. Explain the sentence with your argument – the Purana was not composed with only one subject .
3. Explain how we can utilise the teachings of Shree Shree Chandi for the welfare of the society.
4. Explain the utility of reading the Chandi in context of the social life.

Multiple Questions:

1. How many main characteristics do we see in the Purana?

- | | |
|--------------|----------------|
| (a) five | (b) twelve |
| (c) eighteen | (d) twenty-one |

2. What is meant by heaven?

- | | |
|------------|--------------|
| (a) bliss | (b) peace |
| (c) virtue | (d) creation |

3. Religious books describe

- i. the speech and sublimity of god.
- ii. Good advice for social life.
- iii. the story of god and goddess.

Which is the right below?

- | | |
|----------------|-------------------|
| (a) i | (b) ii |
| (c) ii and iii | (d) i, ii and iii |

Read the passage of below and answer the questions numbers 4 and 5.

- 4. Everyday Soumi recites from the Shree Shree Chandi. It keeps her mind fresh. Besides, she thinks that as a result of this she and her family stay fine.

Soumi reads the Chandi daily because

- i. it has examples of devotion to God.
- ii. it shows how to get rid of dangers.
- iii. it saves her religion.

Which of the following is right?

- (a) i and ii
- (b) i and iii
- (c) ii and iii
- (d) i, ii and iii

- 5. Who is Mahamaya?

- (a) Durga
- (b) Lakshmi
- (c) Saraswati
- (d) Shitala

Creative Questions:

Though Sanjoy is dangerous and cruel in nature but he has affection for children. He is easily irritated at trifle matters. He does not hesitate to beat others if his interest is hampered. He snatches others property. Everybody dislikes him for these reasons. On the other hand, nobody can leave him due to his charity and religious practices. His son Devajit is totally opposite to him. He is amiable, kind and benevolent. He likes to do social welfare work. Devajit does not like his father's illegal deeds at all. He protests his father's misdeeds. This is why there is a conflict between the father and the son.

- (a) How many mantras are there in the Chandi?
- (b) How is the Chandi included in the Purana?
- (c) Make a comparative study between the character of Sanjay and Mahishasur?
- (d) The teachings of Shree Shree Chandi have been reflected in Devajit's character. Evaluate the statement.

Chapter Three

The Nature and the Beliefs of Hindu Religion

Hindu religion is quite an age old religion. Not a single person can be identified as a founder of this religion. This religion has flourished as a result of many devotees' sincere practices. The nature of God, beliefs to Him, Karmabad (principles of work), Janmantarbad (beliefs about life after death), Avatartatwa (theories of the incarnations), the worship of gods and goddesses, Mokshalava (salvation), dignity to women are the characteristics of Hindu religion.

Again, to explain the nature of Hindu Religion we become familiar with some beliefs and religious works which are the basis of Hindu Religion. The next two chapters discuss the nature of Hindu Religion and religious faith in Hinduism.

After finishing this chapter we will be able to

- identify the nature and the characteristics of Hindu Religion.
- explain Ishwaratatwa (the concept of God) as a characteristic feature of Hinduism, devotion to and beliefs on God in Hindu Religion.
- explain some fundamental beliefs of Hindu Religion such as Karmabad and Janmantar, the welfare and the salvation of the world.
- explain the system of Upasana (prayer), Puja, religious rituals and ceremonies as religious practices.
- explain Karmabad and Janmantar as religious faiths.
- explain the inner meanings of Karmaphal and Janmantar.
- narrate a religious story and its teaching about Karmaphal and Janmantar.
- explain the status of women in the light of religious teaching.
- explain how to give women proper status.

- Involve ourselves in good works from our beliefs in Karmabad and Janmantarbad.
- Show respect and dignity to women.

Part one: The Nature of Hinduism

Lesson 1: The Features of Hinduism

Every religion has its own features. They make it different from others. The Hindu Religion has some special theories, beliefs and practices which together make its' characteristics. Some of them are the concept of God, belief in and devotion to God, principles of work and recreation, theories of the avatar, salvation, thoughts of well being for living beings and the universe etc. The nature of Hindu religion has been revealed through these features. Now we shall learn about these main features in brief in the light of Hindu Religion.

The Theory of God

It is believed in Hinduism that Ishwar doesn't have any form. Hinduism strongly believes that He is one and only. We know that when God doesn't have any form, we call him Brahma. When He dominates everything, He is Ishwar. When he shows His kindness to creatures He is called Vagabana.

The speciality in Hinduism is that it believes – though God doesn't have any form, He can take any form when He feels it is necessary. Having this form He can come down to the earth. If God comes down to the earth in this way, we call Him Avatar. The Abatarbad (the doctrine of incarnation) is a special characteristic of Hindu Religion. Again, God expresses His power through gods (Deva) and goddesses (Devi) or deities. This Devbad or theory of deities too is special in Hindu Religion.

We know that Ishwara lives in the living beings as soul. Every living being has a part of God. So we should respect and serve the living beings because the service to the living beings is ultimately regarded as the service to God. Here lie the basic moral teachings of Hindu Religion. So there will be no conflicts if we accept the truth that living beings are Ishwar. We should not give any pain to others as that should be considered as a pain to Ishwar.

The concept of God in Hinduism believes that Brahma or Ishwar, Abatar, Dev-Devi and living beings together constitute God.

Individual work: Describe a person in your locality who is committed to the service towards living beings.

Lesson 2 and 3 : Belief and devotion to God

The followers of Hindu Religion believe deeply in God. The cosmos is in function following His established rules. He is all pervading doer of creation, stability and destruction. He is very kind and compassionate. So it is our duty to respect him. The god and goddess are also a part of Ishwar. So we will respect them too.

Principles of work and ideas of salvation (Karmabad and Janmantar)

God is the almighty. He is the leader of all things. He has created works to earn livelihood for the creatures. Whatever we do that is 'Karma' (work). To make houses, to produce crops, to do business, to study, to worship or meditation – everything comes under Karma. Every Karma has a result. The result of good Karma is good or piety. On the other hand, the result of bad Karma is bad or sin. Every doer has to undergo the result of his/her work. None can avoid it. This is called Karmabad. Human beings are reborn sometimes to take their shares of Karmafal (the result of work) if necessary. It is called Janmantar (the beliefs of life after death). Karmabad and Janmantarbad are the main features of Hindu Religion.

Ideas of Salvation (mokshalav)

Obtaining of Salvation is another feature of Hindu religion. Moksha means perpetual salvation. Salvation from what? It is a kind of release from the cycle of birth and death again and again. The souls of living beings are the parts of Ishwar or Paramatma. The souls of human beings (Jivatma) mix with Ishwar (Paramatma) to obtain perpetual salvation. Whenever one gets salvation, one will never get reborn. This is called Moksha (salvation).

The way of obtaining salvation is to surrender all works to God i.e. to complete all the work considering them work of God. We have to lead our life through dedication without any desire for enjoyment and to do something beneficial work for the mankind.

Individual work: Explain the idea of Karmabad with some examples.

Lesson 4 and 5: The thoughts of welfare for human beings and the world

According to Hinduism the aim of religious practices is atmamokshaya Jaghitaya cha. It means that the aim of religious practices is to work for own salvation along with the welfare of the world. "Think of all not only of you". Otherwise it will be mere own happiness. Hinduism does not approve of one's own happiness only. You have to do welfare of the world with the thought of atmamoksha. Otherwise neither religious practices nor the salvation will be complete. So one of the best ways to salvation is to work for the welfare of the living beings and the world.

Religious Practices (Dharmakritya)

The application of religion depends on prayers, religious practices and ceremonies performed. The followers of Hindu religion worship the shapeless form of God through recital of Vedic mantras and songs. Again the shaped form of God is worshipped making the idol or pratima of gods and goddesses following the definite rules of puja (pujabidhi).

We are to observe some rites and rituals to exercise Hinduism. These include Nityakarma, Yogasana, going to pilgrims, bathing in the pure water including the Ganges, service towards guests, Tulasi-Seba etc. Rites and rituals are done in daily life. They have been in practice for ages such as formalities after the birth (Janmakritya), marriage, funeral ceremonies, obsequies (sraddha) etc. Thus the nature of Hinduism is revealed through the concept of Ishwar (Ishwaratatwa), beliefs in and devotion to God, some fundamental ideas and beliefs.

Individual work: Mention some ways of obtaining salvation.

Part Two: Religious beliefs

Lesson 1, 2 and 3: Karmabad and Janmantarbad

We know that any religion is founded on some beliefs. These are the basis of that religion. Karmabad and Janmantarbad are two of the main bases of Hindu Religion. The doer must suffer for the good or bad result of his or her work. If the sufferings do not end in one life time, one has to be born again to complete the cycle of the suffering. This is called Karmabad.

On the other hand, the process of death after birth and rebirth after death is called Janmantar. Karmabad lies under the concept of Janmantar. Here is religious story that describes how the result of 'Karma' goes on through 'Janmantar'.

Long ago there was a king who was a devotee of Vishnu. His name was Bharata. He married Panchajana, the daughter of Bishawarupa. They had five sons. King Bharata divided his kingdom among his sons. Then he went to exile for divine contemplation. Gradually by dint of his religious austerities he became the saint Bharat/Munibharat.

One day he went to the river to take a bath. There he saw a deer drinking water. The deer was about to give birth to a fawn. That time there was roaring of a lion in forest. Being afraid the deer fell down on a the bank of the river and gave birth to young child. The deer breathed its last. Seeing this scene, the Saint Bharata became very kind and brought the kid to his hermitage. He passed his time taking caring of this motherless child. As a result, the Muni's austerities went in vain. At one stage he died thinking of the child of the deer. The religious books say that a man is born in this world as he thinks at the time of his death. So the Saint Bharata had a second birth as a deer. But he could remember his previous birth. Even in the life of a deer he was fond of listening to the religious speech and practices. Thus he died once and was reborn as a man. He obtained the mercy of God through worship.

Every human being has to suffer the result of his/her work. This belief is logical. There is a reason behind every action. When the reason comes then comes the consequence with it. For example, a boy may be happy getting wet in the rain and bathing in the cold water. But he does not know he may become sick being drenched in the rain for long or bathing in the cold water. Whether he knows or not, he has to face the consequence. Therefore it is seen that the result of work is related to the work itself. Consequence of work is a logical sequence of work. 'Karmaphal' (consequence) is a reality for a person who does any work. Again the doer has to suffer the consequence too. We will be conscious about this system which we cannot change. We will differentiate between the good and bad work and practice those work which are good for our life.

Individual work: How will you reflect the teachings of religious stories about facing the consequences of work through birth and re-birth?

Lesson 4 and 5: The dignity of women

There are roles of men and women in life. Most of the time a man works outside. On the other hand, home becomes a favourite work place for many women. A daughter grows up under her parents' affection and care after her birth. She goes to husband's house in married life and takes care of his home. In old age the same woman has to depend on her sons and daughters.

Thus we find the three different roles of a woman in our society – a daughter, a wife and a mother. As a wife her jobs are to take care of husband's family, rearing of children and ensuring their education. Thus a woman does her family work and inspires her children for better education and shapes up their character. Only an ideal mother can work for ideal children. There is no friend to a child as a mother.

There cannot be any better friend than a mother to a child. To a child only a mother is the best shelter, encourager and the source of joy in well and woe. Therefore it is a duty of a child to respect his or her mother, and serve her properly.

One of the books of Hindu Religion is Manu-Sanhita. It suggests how peace can be ensured in familial life. It tells that if the women of a family lead their lives in joy, festivals; God blesses that family with peace and prosperity. So respectful behaviour to the women has become the part of religion. On the other hand, in Hinduism woman symbolizes God's nature and power. It is the primeval power (adyashakti) Mahamaya. There cannot be anything without power. And the goddess for that power is a woman. Thus the Hindu religion has expressed the dignity has to the power of women. The religious books also say that God divides himself into two parts for creation—one part is man and the other part is woman. This division is equal- no less or more. We find in an idol by the name of 'Ardhanarishawar' one half of this is Shiva and the other half is Parvati (Durga). This signifies the equality between man and woman. It also manifests the equal dignity of man and woman.

It has been said in the Mahavarata that gods live in the family with joy where women are provided with proper respect. (Anushasan Parba, 46/5) On the other hand, if any woman is disregarded in a family, all good acts ultimately go in vain. (Anushasan Parba, 46/6)

The proper way to respect women is to remember that women are part of the primeval power – Devi Mahamaya. We should behave with women taking an equal view for women following the rules of religious books. Above all God lives in women too as soul. So, if we show dignity to women, we will show dignity to God too.

We shall follow the examples of dignity towards women in the religious books. We will be inspired to believe that women have equal rights in all spheres of life.

Hindu Religion is established on the beliefs of Karmabad and Janmantar, feelings of dignity to women, serving the living beings considering them God, the concept of sin and virtue, the idea of the heaven and hell etc. These beliefs of religion aim at developing humanity among mankind and inspiring all to maintain peace and discipline in family and social life.

Group works: Write down some ways to ensure proper dignity for women.

Exercise

Fill in the blanks.

1. When Ishwar descend on this world with any bodily shape, He is called
2. Service towards living being is equal to
3. In Hinduism the nature or power of Ishwar is called
4. We suffer consequence according to our.....
5. Ishwar is called Vagaban when He

Join with the left side taking the word or the part of a sentence from the right side.

Left side	Right side
1. God stays in	mokhsa.
2. Salvation means	poritrana.
3. King Bharata was	a follower of Vishnu.
4. Motherly Ishwar	help us develop as good citizens. living beings as soul.

Answer the questions below in brief:

1. Explain some good works in your daily life.
2. What do you mean by re-birth (Janmantarbad)?
3. Why was the saint Bharata re-born as a deer?
4. How can we show dignity to women?

Answer the questions below:

1. Brahma, Abtar, Dev-Devi are unitedly one God- explain it.
2. Discuss the relation between Karmabad and Janmantarbad.
3. Explain this Sanskrit sentence 'Atmamokshaya Jagidhitaya cha'.
4. The best role of a woman is that of a mother. Explain this statement with example.

Multiple questions:

1. How does God live in creatures?
 (a) soul (b) life
 (c) air (d) Shaped
2. One of the ways of obtaining salvation is-
 i. to do good to creatures.
 ii. to work for one's own good.
 iii. to do good to the world.

Which of the below is the right answer?

- (a) i
(b) ii
(c) i and iii
(d) i, ii and iii

3. What is the essential duty to establish peace in the family life?

- (a) to serve the parents in old age.
- (b) to give importance to familial prosperity.
- (c) to establish rights and dignity of women in a family.
- (d) to respect guest and neighbours.

Read the text below and write down the answers to the questions numbers 4 and 5 below.

Soumirani works as a teacher in a school. Besides her work, She is very conscious to make her child a good citizen. She knows that a mother's contribution is the best to make a child a perfect person.

4. What should Soumirani do to build up her child as a befitting citizen?

- i. to give proper education
- ii. to give importance to mould up the moral character
- iii. to make self-dependent

Which of the following answers is right?

- (a) i
(b) ii
(c) i and ii
(d) i, ii and iii

5. The role especially reflected in Soumirani's behaviour in her family life is—

- i. as a daughter
- ii. as a wife
- iii. as a mother

Which of the below answers is right?

- (a) i (b) ii
(c) iii (d) i and ii

Creative Questions:

Adhir Babu considers his work as religion. He helps his parents, brothers and sisters, kith and kin financially, and in their familial and other types of work. He is especially respectful to the dignity and right of his mother, sister and wife. He does not expect anything of them or from the creator for these deeds. He believes that man is born once. Sin or virtue takes place normally in this world.

- (a) What do you mean by 'Moksha'?
- (b) Explain Karmabad lies under Janmantar.
- (c) Explain that the features of Hindu Religion that are reflected in the behaviour of Adhirbabu.
- (d) Adhirbabu's behaviour to mother, sister and wife is right. Evaluate this statement in the light of your learning about "The Dignity of Women".

Chapter Four

Nityakarma and Yogasan

From the morning till night the daily work we do is called Nityakarma (Daily duties). There are six kinds of Nityakarma. These are Pratakritiya, Purbannhakritiya, Madhyannakritiya, Aparatnnakritiya, Sayannakritiya and Naishakritiya. They make our body and mind pacified, pure, clean, active and fill us with the best thoughts. We need practice to keep our body and mind well. So daily exercise of Yogasana is important. So to keep the body strong and disease free and to remove the restlessness of mind the benefits of sukhasan, shalvasan, pashimottonasan are undeniable. This chapter discusses the importance of daily duties and the Yogasan.

After we have finished the unit we will be able to

- explain the daily duties.
- explain the idea of Sukhasana and describe how to do it.
- describe the influence of Sukhasana.
- explain the idea of Shalvasana and describe how to do it.
- describe the influence of Shalvasana.
- explain the idea of Paschimottonasana and describe how to do it.
- describe the influence of Pashimottanasana.
- realise the importance of Sukhasan, Shalvasan and Pashimottanasana.
- do Sukhasan, Shalvasan and Pashimottanasana.

Lesson 1, 2, 3 and 4: Daily duties (nityakarma)

The time from morning till night is divided into six parts: (1) Prata (2) Purbanah (3) Moydhaanah (4) Aparannah (5) Sayannah and (6) Naisha.

Keeping these six divisions of time the daily duties have been divided into six parts:

- (1) Pratakritya (2) Purbannahkrittya (3) Madhyannnahkrittya
(4) Aparannahkrittya (5) Sayannahkrittya and (6) Ratri or Naishakritya.

1. Pratakritya: Getting up from the sleep before the sun-rising one has to sit facing the North to utter mantras remembering God or gods and goddesses. There are fixed mantras for this in religious books. Here is a mantra with simple meaning:

Brahma Muraritripurantakari

Bhanu Shashi Bhumisuto Budhasha

Gurusha Shukra Shanirahuketu

Kurbentu Sarbe mama Supravatam.

Meaning: Brahma, Murari (Krishna), the killer of Tripurashur Shiva, Surya, Chandra, Buddha, Brihaspati, Sukra, Shoni, Rahu, Ketu, please make my morning beautiful.

Individual work: Recite the mantra of pratakal.

After this coming outside one has to remember one's 'guru' and should salute (pranam) the earth and the sun. Every day one has to salute parents in the morning and evening. Then one has to be dressed up after washing hands and legs, and taking a bath.

2. Purbannahkrittya: After Pratakritya till the Madhyannah the work we do is called Purbannahkrittya. Prayer, adoration, and puja should be done during this time. These works should be observed daily by all in a family. Then other works of the day should be started such as to eat, to go to work, do household chores, study or go to school.

Individual work: Make a list of your Purbannakritya.

3. Madhyannahkritya: After Purbannah till Aparannah the work done is Madhyannahkritya. This time is noon. This is the time for taking lunch and taking rest. If any guest comes at noon, she or he should be fed properly. Because scriptures say, guest is Narayana. By serving the guest we serve God.

4. Aparannahkritya: After the noon till the Sahanyah the work done is called Aparannahkritya. This time is called evening. This time we do useful work for us and family. Besides, doing sports, taking physical exercise or having a walk keeps our body fit.

5. Sayannahkritya: Sayannah means Sandhya. In twilight you must be neat and clean washing your hands and face. Then you have to worship God. God should be praised with songs, praises, respect and devotion. In this connection a song of Rabindra Nath Tagore is given below.

Dhaya Jeno more sakal valobasha

Prabhu, Tamar pane, tamar pane, tomer pane.

Jaya jeno more sakal gavir asha

Prabhu, Tomer kane, tomer kane, tomer kane.

Chuta mamo jakhon jetha thake sara jeno deya se taba dake

Jata bandhan sab tute go jeno

Prabhu, Tomer tane, tomer tane.

Bahirer ei vikkhaha vora thali ebar jeno nishewash hoy khali. , antar more gopane jay vore

Prabhu, Tomer dane, tomer dane, tomer dane

Hey bandhu more, hey antarater, ee jibane ja kichhu sundar sakai aaj beje uthuk suyre

Prabhu, Tomer gane, tomer gane, tomer gane.

Group work: Identify the teachings of the songs of Rabindra Nath Tagore and things to be done.

6. Naishakritya: During the time from evening till going to bed the work done is called Naishakritya. Studying and another useful works are done during this time. It is the time for taking supper and going to bed. Then on the bed the word 'Padmanave' which is the name of Shree Vishnu should be uttered because the scriptures say – 'shayane padmanavancha'.

Lesson 5 and 6: Shalvasana

The idea of Shalvasana: The word 'Shalva' means insect. During the time of this asana the body looks like an insect, so the name of the asana is Shalvasana.

Procedure: Lie down on your chest on the ground or on a solid surface. The chin will stay on the ground. Place both the hands straightly beside both sides of the body and keep them under the thighs. The palms of the hands will be spread equally on the ground. The fingers will touch one another straightly. The knees, the thighs and the ankles will touch one another. Then breathe in slowly and move the legs upward one and half to two hands keeping the knees, the thighs and the legs straight. Stay in this position from 20 to 30 seconds. Keep your breathing normal. The asana will be exercised 4 to 5 times and every time you finish it take rest in Shabhasana

Individual work: Demonstrate Shalvasana.

Its impact: This asana is beneficial for any kind of pain in the waist and backbone. It makes the backbone flexible and strong and decreases fat in the lower part of the abdomen and the back. The structure of the thigh and the waist is formed nice at this. It also makes the heart better function. The asana is a wonderful antidote for paralysis. This asana works effectively to regain appetite, and curing acidity, indigestion, constipation. It solves gastric problem, removes flatulence, and increases digestion. This asana is very useful for the hunchback people.

Individual work: Make a poster to write down usefulness of Shalvasana.

Lesson 7 and 8: Pashchimottanasana

The idea of the Pashchimottanasana: At this asana the back side of our body gets more exercise so it is called Paschimottarasana.

Procedure: Sit with two legs straightly spread in the front. Then spreading the hands straight hold tight the toe of the right leg with thumb, middle finger and pointer of the right hand; and hold the toe of the left leg with thumb, middle finger and pointer of the left hand. The backbone should be kept straight and the back should be kept in equal position. Then touch the knees with your forehead keeping the eyes close. Fold the elbows to keep beside the knees. The belly and the chest will touch the thigh as far as possible. Stay 30 seconds in this position keeping the normal breath. Then breathe in and raise the head from the knee. Leave the toes of the legs. Take the rest for 30 seconds at Shabasana. Thus exercise should be done three or four times.

Individual work: Show the Pashchimottanasana doing exercise.

Its impact: This asana is very useful for the backbone and the belly. The backbone is reenergized in this asana. The muscle of the back side of the knee and all the parts of the body become tight and thus it works on increasing our efficiency. It helps cure acidity, loss of appetite, dysentery, gastric or flatulence. It increases the digestion. This asana is beneficial to the patients of the weak nerve. It is good for patients with saitica, paralysis and diabetes. It is good for kidney too. It cuts down the fat of belly and the waist it makes the figure beautiful. It helps teen agers to be tall. This asana is very useful to remove the restlessness of mind, and loss of inspiration. This asana is prohibited for patients with appendicitis and hernia.

Individual work: Make a list of benefits for the exercise of Pashchimottanasana.

Exercise

Fill in the blanks.

1. We should *pranam*everyday in the morning and in the evening.
2. If we serve the guests, we ultimately serve the
3. Sayanna means
4. the best thing for meditation .
5. The word Shalava means

Join with the left side bringing the word or the part of the sentence from the right side.

Left side	Right side
1. We should appreciate God with	simple statements, hymns, or songs.
2. Madyanakrita means	the back side has the highest exercise.
3. In Pashimottanasana	taking food and rest in the afternoon. should be kept on the chest.

Write short answers of the questions below:

1. Why is Pratakritya important?
2. What are the duties of Purbannakritya?
3. Identify the impact on body and mind for regular exercise of Sukhasana?

Answer the questions below.

- (1) Explain the daily duties with examples.
- (2) Write the steps of Sukhasana.
- (3) Explain how you will practise Shalvasan.
- (4) Explain the influence of regular of Shalvasan on body and mind.

Multiple Questions:

1. Which avatar is called the 'Murare'?

- | | |
|---------------|------------------|
| (a) Ram | (b) Krishna |
| (c) Nrisingha | (d) Srichaitanya |

2. What is the duty after Madhyannakritya?

- | | |
|-------------|--------------|
| (a) Purbnna | (b) Aparanna |
| (c) Sayanna | (d) Naisha |

3. The impact of regular practice of Sukhasan on legs is

- i. it increases strengths.
- ii. it causes a cramp.
- iii. the elasticity of muscle is regained.

Which one is the right below?

- (a) i and ii
- (b) ii and iii
- (c) i and iii
- (d) i, ii and iii

Read the text write down the answers to questions number 4 and 5.

Rama reads in class seven. She is good at studies and behaviour. But she always remains humpbacked. Oneday her teacher advises her to practise an asana. Rama has got benefit from her teacher's advice.

4. Which asana does the teacher advise for Rama?

- (a) Padmasan
- (b) Sukhasan
- (c) Shalvasan
- (d) Pashimottasan

5. The benefits, Rama has got from the asana are-

- i. straightening the backbone
- ii. palpitation of the heart
- iii. better muscle shape of the waist

Which is the right below?

- (a) i and ii
- (b) ii and iii
- (c) i and iii
- (d) i, ii and iii

Creative Questions:

1. Sujan, a student of class seven, is short. Since he is fat, he faces problems to do different works. Sujan's parents are anxious about it. When he is taken to a doctor, the doctor advises him to control his body through Yogasan. Sujan has got much benefit from the doctor's advice.

- (a) When will you get up from sleep?
- (b) Explain the importance of Sayannakritya?
- (c) Which asana has given Sujan good result? describe how to do that asana.
- (d) "The asana Sujan practises has manifold benefits". Analyse the statement.

Chapter Five

Worship of Gods and Goddesses

Ishwar (God) doesn't have any particular shape or image. But when it is necessary to restore the religions, He descends this world taking the shape of others. When Ishwar reveals His power, we call the image a god or goddess (Dev or Devi). Some of these gods and goddesses are Brahma, Vishnu, Shiva, Durga, Laxmi, Saraswati, Kali, Monosha etc. These gods and goddesses reveal special qualities and power of Ishwar. We worship them.

Generally worshipping or puja means appreciating or showing respect. But in Hinduism this word has special meaning. Here puja is to offer appreciation or respects to gods or goddesses with floral offerings following some rituals. It includes chanting mantras, offering flowers, doing arti, dhyana (meditations) and some other formalities which are related to general well being.

Now let us know about parvana or festival. It means joyful celebration. Puja-parvana is a commonly used term in Hinduism. The joyful celebrations of gods and goddess with devotion are called puja-parvana. These include creating images of deities; decorating temples; arranging special musical instruments such as drums, bells, kanshi, or conch; exchanging greetings with other followers; making and eating special foods; arranging entertaining programmes; and wearing clean dresses. Special rituals are followed for worshipping gods and goddesses. They differ from deity to deity. This chapter discusses the rituals of worships, and how to worship Laxmi, and Bishwakarma. It also focuses the importance and process of worshipping them along with how to make floral offerings, what pronam mantra is used, and lessons and effects of puja.

After we have finished this chapter we will be able to

- explain the concepts of worshipping rituals (pujabidhi)
- describe Laxmi Devi and her identity.
- narrate how to worship Laxmi Devi

- chant floral offering and mantras of Laxmi Puja in Sanskrit and explain it in Bangla
- analyse the lessons and influence of Laxmi Puja in ways of life
- describe Bishwakarma dev and his identity
- narrate how to worship Bishwakarma dev
- give floral offering and chant mantras of Bishwakarma Puja in Sanskrit and explain it in Bangla
- analyse the teachings and effects of Bishwakarma puja at family of social life
- be inspired to do Laxmi and Bishwakarma puja

Lesson 1, 2 and 3: Pujabidhi (puja formalities)

There are some rituals of worships in Hinduism. They are called pujabidhi. According to pujabidhi, protima, ghot, pot, mondol, shalgram, pustaka, shiblingo, and jol are called adhar. Puja can be done on any one of them. The basics of puja include call for the god or goddess, dhayana, pran protishthya, chanting of puja mantra, floral offerings (pushpanjali prodan), chanting prarthona mantra or pronam mantra, and bisharjana. Besides, worshipping of five deities before any puja is commonly practised. These five deities are – Shiva, Vishnu, Surjya, Agni, and Kali. There are some general and special rituals for puja. Some of them are discussed below-

1. Ashana shudhdhi and Achmana: According to these rituals, items used for worshipping should be made sacred before starting any worship or puja. This is done to make the items sacred. In this process asana, water, palms, and flowers are made sacred before setting up the ghot (clay pot). Then comes the necessity of Achmana. For Achmana hands, legs, and eyes are washed with fresh water and then water is taken three times. During this period certain mantras are spelt out and Lord Vishnu is remembered followed by swasthibachana. Swasthibachana means good wishes. Before starting any puja what a priest utters as an act of good wishes for all is called swasthibachan.

2. Sangkalpo*: Sangkalpo is the vow made or uttered with a view to performing the puja properly.
3. Invocation of the deity, offering of eyes, and establishing of life: Once the image (pratima or picture) is set, the first step of any puja is to make hearty request to the deity to accept the puja or prayer. It is believed that the desired deity is staying within the image. It is followed by a ceremony of offering eyes to the image. Then special mantras are uttered to the gods and goddesses to enliven them.
4. Meditation, chanting puja mantras, offering flowers, prayers, surrender and salutations to desired gods and goddesses: This part includes meditation for or worship of the desired gods and goddesses through chanting of mantras, floral offerings, prayer and pronam. At this stage, we surrender to the deity and seek their mercy if there are any mistakes throughout the process. We also want their blessings. This is a very important part of any puja.
5. Aarti* and bisarjan: Aarti is another activity done for gods and goddesses. During Aarti, we pray to the gods and goddesses with burning camphor to take out all the external and internal bad elements in us through prayers. At this stage, all worshippers are given blessings. This establishes our deep regards for the deity in worship. Finally we immerse the deities, which is called bisharjana.

Moreover, steps such as resolution for the worship (songkolpo), offering water with a view to taking water slowly, and offering ornaments, umbrella, hand fans (chamar) are also parts of pujabidhi.

Kinds of puja based on Pujabidhi: Worshipping of gods and goddesses with shape can be done in different ways following different upachar (sub-rituals):

Ponchopochar puja: Upachar means upakarana (materials/elements). Ponchopochar puja is done through five things – incense (gandha), flowers (pushpa), oudh (dhup), lights (deep), and noibedya. These are called ponchopochar.

Doshopochar puja: Doshopochar puja is done through ten materials. These are padya, argha, acmonio, modhuproka, punorachmonio, gandha, pushpa, dhupa, deepa and noibedya.

Shoroshopochar puja: Asana, swagata, padya, orgha, achmonio, modhuporko, punorachmonio, snaniyo, basan, avoron, gondho, pushpo, dhup, deep, noibedya and bandana are the sixteen elements for Shoroshopochar puja.

Rituals vary from area to area. Yet generally they are identical.

Individual work: Write down the general rituals of puja.

Lesson 4 & 5: Introduction to Shree Shree Laxmi Devi

Introduction of Laxmi Devi

Laxmi is the goddess of wealth, prosperity, and fortune. She is beautiful and gracious. She gives wealth and prosperity to her worshippers. Her carrier is the owl.

The term 'Laxmisree' (looks like Laxmi) comes from the goddess Laxmi as she symbolizes beauty and sacredness. She is the wife of Lord Vishnu. Devi Laxmi is very beautiful and she has four hands. She takes her asana on lotus. She has gray, white, bright yellow and bluish complexion. As she is the goddess of beauty, she is the goddess of wealth. We know that prosperity depends on wealth and wealth includes land, animals, food grains, knowledge, patience, honesty, purity etc.

Laxmi puja procedures: There are certain formalities for worships (puja). The Laxmi puja formalities start with achmana sitting on a sacred asana worshipping five deities. Then comes the formality of meditation or dhyana of the goddess Laxmi followed by worshipping her with different puja essentials (upakarana). Laxmi puja can be done following ponchopochar (five essentials), doshopochar (ten essentials), or shoroshopochar (sixteen essentials). The basic regulations of Laxmi puja include dhyana of the goddess Laxmi, reciting puja-mantra, offering floral respect, chanting of pronam mantra. Finally the image of the goddess is submerged.

Time for Laxmi puja: Laxmi puja is done usually on every Thursday. Laxmi panchali (a long narrative written in verse form) is read out in worshipping her. Special Laxmi puja takes place on the lunar day of the bright fortnight (shukla pakhkha) in the month of Ashwin. This Laxmi puja is known as Kojagori Laxmi Puja.

Individual work: Laxmi is the goddess of wealth. Narrate the procedure of the Laxmi Puja in the light of your own experience.

Lesson 6 and 7: Floral respect (pushpanjali) in Laxmi Puja, pronam mantra and the teachings and effects of Laxmi Puja

The floral offerings in Laxmi Puja

Om nomoste sarbavutanang barodasi haripriye

Ja gatistat propannanang sa me vuyatwodorchanat

Meaning: You give your blessings to everyone. May I fare with my prayer to you as much well as what happens to your protectees. I offer you my pronam.

Pronam mantra for Laxmi Devi

Om bishwaruposya varjasi padme podmaloye shuve.

Sorboto pahi mang debi mohalaxmi nomohostute.

Meaning: Oh the goddess of well being, the beauty of the world, the wife of Vishnu, you are the lotus as well as the dwelling place for the lotus. Please bless everyone with goodness. Please save me everywhere. Accept my pronam for you.

The teachings of Laxmi puja and its effect: Hindu families do Laxmi puja. Laxmi puja takes place on every Thursday. It creates a kind of fellow feelings among the Hindu community. Since Laxmi Devi blesses us with wealth, we try to attach our faith in her through worshipping. The calm and cool image of Laxmi Devi brings peace and quietness among the worshippers.

Group work: Find out the socio-economic impacts of Laxmi puja.

Lesson 8: Introduction to Lord Bishwakarma and the procedures for his worshipping

Introduction: According to Hindu mythology, Bishwakarma is the god of art, sculpture, machines and machine technology. He is the main architect of this universe. He is adept in artistry, sculpture, and fine arts. According to the myth, he is an artist of the deities. He is the author of Veda of Sculpture, a small Veda. The four armed Bishwakarma is very powerful. The left two hands of Bishwakarma hold a bow and a scale; while the two hands in the right side hold hammer, and Brahma-axe. His carrier is an elephant. People develop expertise in artistry and mechanical engineering with his kindness and blessings. He is the creator of ornament crafts as well as manufacturer of planes and arms for the deities. Being directed by Lord Brahma, he constructed the city of Kiskindya, the palace of Yama and Barundev, floral cart (pusparath), the storm of Indra, the trident (trishula) of the god Shiva, sudorshanchakro (a wheel) of the Lord Vishnu, and the arms of Kuber. He also constructed Dwarakapuri being asked by Vagaban Shree Krishna.

Procedures for Bishwakarma puja

All kinds of arts and crafts are the creation of Bishwakarma. He bestows human beings with artistic knowledge and talent. The ultimate objective of Bishwakarma puja is to gain his pity so that one can be skillful at work. Those who are either involved in crafts or work as craftsman, worship Bishwakarma on the sonkranti tithi in the Bangla month of Vadra. Though the formalities are similar to other worships, the working members in a family place their tools and equipments related to their occupations in front of the image of Bishwakarma. This worship can be done in ponchopochar, doshopochar, or shoroshopochar.

Individual work: Describe the procedure for Bishwakarma puja from your own experience.

Lesson 9 and 10: Floral offerings, pronam mantra, teachings of Bishwakarma puja and its impacts

Mantra for floral offerings

Esho sochandano durbapushpobilwapotranjalih

Om shilpobote shree biswakormone namah

Meaning: I offer my respect and pronam to the god of arts, Bishwakarma' with sandal (chandan), grasses (durba), flowers, and leaves of wood apple (bilwapatra).

Pronam mantra

Om devashilpiney mohavag debanam karjyosadhak

Bishwakormonnomostuvyang sorbavista folprodoh

Meaning: Oh the artist of the deities, Bishwakarma, you are great. You are the possessor of all good qualities. You are the perfect worker for all the gods and you fulfill their desires. I offer my pronam to you.

The teachings and impacts of Bishwakarma puja

One can gain excellence in arts and science with Bishwakarma's blessings. His blessings help gain skills in crafts. Worshippers can prove their respect to Bishwakarma by doing family based or temple based worshipping of god Bishwakarma.

- Worshippers are more attentive to their own work and develop an artistic mind set.
- Worshippers attain more skills in arts and mechanical sciences with the blessings of Bishwakarma.
- Bishwakarma puja spreads folk-arts (lokoshilpo).

Exercise

Fill in the gaps.

1. Citing mantras is one of the aspects of worshipping.
2.puja comes before any puja.
3. Swasthibachana means
4. All arts and crafts are the creation of..... beings.
5. The author of Architecture Veda is

Match the phrases in the right with those in the left.

Left side	Right side
<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. We need to follow pujabidhi 2. Incense spreads 3. Laxmi puja is done 4. The four armed shape of the god Bishwakarma 	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> a. on every Thursday. b. is very powerful. c. fragrance d. for any kind of worshipping (puja).

Answer the following questions in brief:

1. What to do for asanasudhdhi and achmana at the time of puja?
2. Explain that Shree Shree Laxmi is the goddess of wealth, prosperity, and fortune.
3. Identify the socio-economic and religious impacts of the worship of Sri Sri Laxmi Devi.
4. How does Bishwakarma puja take place?

Answer the following questions:

1. Explain that pujabidhi has significant importance in religious worships.
2. Explain the teachings and influence of Laxmi puja at the family and social life.
3. Explain that Bishwakarma is a unique and accomplished god in the field of art creation.
4. Explain the teachings and influence of worshipping of Bishwakarma Deva at the family and social levels.

Multiple choice questions

1. Which one is a symbol of power as a puja upachar?

- | | |
|------------|-------------|
| a. incense | b. flowers |
| c. prodip | d. noibedya |

2. Which deity is remembered during the achmana time of any worship?

- | | |
|-----------|-----------|
| a. Shiva | b. Vishnu |
| c. Brahma | d. Agni |

3. Surrender is a very vital part in the worship of any gods or goddesses because we

- i. fulfill our expectations through it.
- ii. revel our devotion through it.
- iii. seek apology for our mistakes through it.

Which one of the following is true?

- | | |
|---------------|-------------------|
| a. i and ii | b. i and iii |
| c. ii and iii | d. i, ii, and iii |

Read the following text and answer questions number 4 and 5:

There is a special puja at Protiti's house in every Ashwin during the full moon. Protiti fasts with his mom to do the puja. Many of their friends and relatives come to their home during this time and thus a joyful atmosphere is created.

4. What god or goddess does Protiti worship?

- | | |
|--------------|----------------|
| a. Saraswati | b. Laxmi |
| c. Gonesh | d. Bishwakarma |

5. As a benefit of this worship Protiti is supposed to get

- i. calm and quite nature
- ii. wealth
- iii. artistic skills

Which one of the below is correct?

- | | |
|---------------|------------------|
| a. i and ii | b. i and iii |
| c. ii and iii | d. i, ii and iii |

Creative questions

1. Abani Babu leads his life making chopper (da), cutter (boti), sickle (kanchi). With a view to gain special skills in his profession and pity of gods and goddesses, every year he worships a special god or goddess with full devotion. On this occasion he places the tolls of his professions before the protima (image). He believes that his professional skills and reputation for work are results of this worship.
 - a. What does worship/puja mean?
 - b. Explain a bidhi or formality of puja.
 - c. What deity is worshipped with devotion by Abani Babu every year? Explain how he does the puja.
 - d. Evaluate the teachings and impacts of that puja in Abani Babu's life.

Chapter Six

Moral teachings in religious myths

Religious books provide religious lessons as well as moral lessons through spiritual knowledge and information. Many myths show how knowledge can be applied too. The relation between religious myths and moral lessons is discussed in the previous classes. We came to know about ideas of moral teachings such as truthfulness, forgiveness, service towards others, brotherhood etc and related exemplary myths along with their teachings. Now we will focus on the ideas of moral values such as sacrifice, patience and kindness as well as some related religious myths and their teachings.

After we have finished this chapter we will be

- explain the concept of dutifulness and sacrifice in the light of hinduism.
- narrate the mythieal stories on honesty, dutifulness and sacrifice.
- explain the teaching as learnt from the stories.
- describe the importance of living an honest life.
- evaluate the role of the family in forming the habit of living an honest life.
- be encouraged to live an honest life on realizing the importance of honesty, dutifulness and sacrifice in individual and social life.

Lesson 1: Honesty

'Honesty' is a great virtue of human beings. 'Honesty' originates form the word 'honest'. One who possesses this virtue becomes well-known in the society. 'Honesty' in fact does not mean only a virtue. It is a combination of some virtues. Among these virtues are truthfulness, cordiality, frankness, good nature, greedlessness etc. Honesty is the practice of committing no injustice or illegal activities. One who is the worshipper of truthfulness, i.e. speaking the truth, living an honest life, never concealing the truth, allowing no falsehood, is blessed with the virtue 'honesty'. Honesty is an organ of religion. It is honesty that makes a person trustworthy to others. By virtue of honesty, a person is recognized as noble in the society. Honesty itself can elevate a person to the threshold of success. Honesty brings peace and relaxation to human life and makes it enlightened and glorified. Of all the virtues that establish a person as noble, blessed and model one, honesty holds the highest position. Honesty leads a person to glory. Honesty is the crown jewel of human nature.

Individual work : What do you think about honesty?

Lesson 2: Myth--Reward of Honesty

The name of the boy is Tunir. He is the only child of poor parents. He became orphan during the Liberation War of Bangladesh. He could hardly take education for want of money. There was scarcity of work in the village. Therefore, one day he left his native village for the town in search of work. In the town he walked and walked and at last came to a shop and said, "uncle, I'm very thirsty. Would you please give me a glass of water?"

The name of the shopkeeper is Doyal Bosak. He looked at the boy and said, "Sit here. What's your name? Where do you live? In reply to the shopkeeper, he said, "My name is Tunir. I've come from a distant village to look for work." Giving him a glass of water and having a little conversation, the shopkeeper surprisingly said, "Sit here for a while. I'm coming in a minute." Leaving Tunir at the shop, the shopkeeper went out. Tunir was keeping a watch on the shop. However, a good deal of time went by, unattended. Meanwhile, some customers came to buy saris. The prices of the saris were tagged on. So Tunir found no difficulty in selling the saris. Because, in his childhood Tunir, together with his father, did the shopping of clothes in haats and markets. He sold several clothes throughout the day. The noon passed into the afternoon and the afternoon rolled into the evening, but there was no trace of the shopkeeper. Finding no other way, Tunir shut the door and passed the night there.

Group Work : Why did not Tunir leave the shop?

The next day the shopkeeper did not appear. What else would Tunir do? He opened the shop. He spent the whole day selling the clothes. The shopkeeper did not come day. Thus days, months went by. But the shopkeeper did never return. In the circumstances, Tunir had to keep the shop and wait for the shopkeeper to return. He had already made good reputation in the business community. Everyone respected him much. He had set up four shops where many employees worked. He looked after the shops. He paid the employees and kept the ledger. He was then very busy.

One day Tunir was in the shop. At that time he saw an old man with a stick at his shop. The man was looking for him. He was wearing dirty torn clothes. He was very weak and thin. He appeared to be a beggar. But Tunir was able to recognize him. He instantly left his seat and went to him. He embraced him and said, "Uncle, couldn't you recognize me? I'm Tunir. I have been keeping a watch on your shop for this long time. I haven't left your shop. I've expanded the business with the profits. I haven't let any loss happen to your shop. You've come so I'll take my leave. Please take responsibility for your shop." Fascinated by the honesty of Tunir, the old man looked at Tunir and tears rolled down his cheeks. He said, "No, Tunir. I need nothing at all. This is all yours. My son, Daughter, wife all have left me. Now, I have none but you in the world."

He said, "That day as I went out leaving you at the shop, I heard that my wife was at death's door." So I hurried to my home. When I arrived, I found my wife dead. A few days later, my son and daughter also died. Then I felt no interest in the family affairs. And I began to live at one ashram to another, so I was unable to have news about you. Though I have lost everything, I am still well by the grace of God. Your name suddenly came to my mind, so I've run to you. I didn't think I'd find you. I've been beside myself to see you in such a situation. You've saved my shop. You've recognized me. Again, you want to give my shop back. How many people can do this? you're not a human, you're a god. May you be more and more successful in life. I bless you."

Tunir said, "Uncle, you're like my father. Before leaving, you entrusted your shop to me. I've been able to keep the honour of your faith. That's my pleasure. I want nothing more of you." Doyal Bosak said, "My dear son, Tunir! Who else can do what you've done? Everyone wants to deceive others for their own interest. And you've not only kept my shop but also expanded it with its profits. This is all yours. This is your reward. You are the real owner." Though Tunir wished to return to his own village, Doyal Bosak did not let him go.

Lesson from the myth: In order to make our life a success, honesty plays the best role. But for honesty, there would have been no distinction between a human and a beast. Honesty clearly shows the difference between the good and the bad. Everyone respects and loves an honest man. All the great men that had come to this world were the possessors and messengers of honesty. They did not hesitate to sacrifice their lives for the sake of honesty. Their aim in life was to reveal the truth.

The opposite of honesty is dishonesty. One who is dishonest tends to conceal the truth. They wish to establish themselves in society by dint of dishonesty. They draw no line between virtue and sin, or justice and injustice. Though they can temporarily exercise influence on the society, it will never be perpetual. This is because falsehood lasts momentarily. People never love them and pay them any regard. Everyone hates them and wants to avoid them. No one believes them.

Therefore we will not live dishonestly and commit sinful activities. We will live an honest life, speak the truth and do everything honestly as Tunir did in this mythical story. We will always remember, "Honesty is the best policy."

Individual work : Why do you think honesty is the best policy?

Lesson 3: Dutifulness

We do different sorts of work in our family and society. Those that are students among us should study properly and acquire knowledge. Those who are in service, should do their respective work with care and attention. One must do the work that one is bound to do by obligation. This is called our duty. And due respect and deep attention to our duty is called dutifulness. Accordingly, 'dutifulness' means one's deep attention to one's obligatory work. Dutifulness is a moral virtue and a part of religion.

The learner should study and acquire knowledge. I am a learner. But I have not studied with attention. What would be the result? I will not be able to make a good result in the examination. I will not be able to acquire the real knowledge. That is why, we do harm to ourselves unless we do our duty.

In the society man has also to do certain duty. If anybody neglects to do his/her duty, the whole society gets affected. In short, dutifulness ennoble a person's character, does good to him/her and thus the society gets greatly benefited. Because a society is comprised of people.

Here is given in brief a mythical story on dutifulness adopted from the Mahavarata.

Lesson 4: Aruni's Dutifulness

It happened many, many days ago. Learners stayed at their teachers' homes. After completing their study, they returned to their own homes. The learners would consider the teachers' homes as their own. The teachers also loved the learners like their own children. Such a learner was Aruni. His teacher was Hrishi Dhaumya. It was the rainy season. The demarcation line of a piece of land of Hrishi Dhaumya was broken down due to the quick flow of the rainy water. Hrishi Dhaumya told Aruni, "Go and put up the demarcation line of the land. Aruni went to the field to put up the demarcation line. What a tremendous flow of the water!

Aruni tried to put up the demarcation line but in vain. Then he lay down himself and thus was able to stop the flow of the water. However, the day passed into the evening. Hrishi Dhaumya's other learners came back all. But there was no sign of return of Aruni. Hrishi Dhaumya got worried. He took two other students Upamanyu and Veda with him and went to the field. When they shouted, "Aruni, Aruni," Aruni got up and came to them. He told them that he had lain down and thus stopped the flow of the water. With care Aruni is termed as dutifulness.

Hrishi Dhaumya became very happy. Aruni too became famous for his dutifulness. We will become an Aruni and acquire the moral virtue, dutifulness.

Lesson from the Myth : Dutifulness ennobles a person's character. It does good to him/her. Aruni's dutifulness has made his character noble. He became dear to his teacher for dutifulness. He became respectable to all. He has set a shining example of dutifulness. We will be dutiful like Aruni.

Individual Work : Make, according to the mythical story, a list of the duty to be done towards your elders.

Lesson 5: Sacrifice and patience

Generally sacrifice means shaking off or avoiding something. But sometimes it means sacrificing self interest, enjoyment, happiness, or benefits. Sacrifice is a special quality of human characteristics. It is a part of religion. A person, who sacrifices own interest or happiness for the cause of others, becomes adorable to others in the society. Everybody respects him. Without sacrifice one cannot perform religion. In fact, there is no limit of enjoyment. The more one enjoys, the more his or her desire spreads. And this desire makes a human being greedy which leads the person to destruction. It results in social conflicts, envy, and hatred. On the other hand, sacrifice makes one great. It brings about peace in the society. The stories and myths in the holy books in Hinduism uphold the strengths of sacrifice.

Patience or forbearance is another quality like sacrifice. It is also a part of religion. It has an important role in shaping up morality. It too brings peace in the society. It also develops inter-personal and friendly relations. Its absence causes inter-personal conflict. A society is developed collectively by being respectful and patient to other's opinions and thoughts. If anyone is not patient, it's impossible for him or her to do social activities smoothly. It's really hard to develop in personal life without the ability to bear sufferings. This is why patience is an important aspect of human life. So this word is always used with sacrifice. In fact, these two terms are inseparably inter related. Without patience, the result of sacrifice may be lost.

The holy books of Hinduism narrate many stories of patience. The story of Rama Chandra is a bright example of it.

Lesson 6&7 : The sacrifice and patience of Shree Rama Chandra

Shree Rama Chandra is the main character of the Ramayana. He is an incarnation (avatar) of Vishnu. He was born as a human being during the Treta Yuga (ages). Rama Chandra has set example of how one can elevate himself or herself to the status of a deity though born as a human being. Though he was a great hero, he was very merciful. The main features of his character were greatness, open mindedness, dutifulness, patience etc.

Dasharatha was the king of Ayodhya. He had three queens. The eldest of the queens was Kousalya. The second queen was Kaikeyi. The youngest one was Sumitra. Rama was the son of Kousalya, Bharata was the son of Kaikeyi, and Laksmana and Satrugna were the sons of Sumitra.

Individual work: Name a self denying person you know and narrate an incident of his sacrifice.

Traditionally the eldest son would inherit the throne in absence of the king that day. Gradually he would gain the state and power. It was a natural course of action for Rama too. So when he became twenty five years old, the old King Dasharatha wanted to give a reception of Rama as the crown prince. Arrangements were made but resistance came from Rama's step mother, Kaikeyi. Once King Dasharatha became ill. It was Kaikeyi who nursed him and worked for his recovery. Being pleased Dasharatha promised her two gifts. Kaikeyi replied "My Lord, I don't want anything now. I will take my gifts when I need."

Now Kaikeyi selected the present time to demand those gifts. She was being guided by the conspiracy of Manthara. When Kaikeyi demanded her two boons to the King Dasharatha, his heart was broken. The first demand was Rama had to go to exile for fourteen years. The second demand was her own son, Bharata would be the king. Hearing these demands, as if, the hell broke down on the king's head. He became very sad. Rama was taken to Dasharatha. Hearing everything Rama got ready to go to exile to fulfill his father's pledges. He left his royal dress, clad himself in stalks and then left the court.

Rama went to Sita. Sita wanted to accompany him but considering her sufferings in such a life, Rama insisted her on not going with him. But Sita didn't pay any heed to Rama. She was adamant. Lakhmana too got prepared to accompany Rama without paying any heed to anyone. Finally Sita and Lakhmana accompanied Rama in his exile. Rama donated everything including his own elephant to others before he started for life in the exile. At the time of departure when everybody was too upset, Rama took everything easy. He accepted everything with a smiling face. Before he left, he requested his father to look after his mothers and take care of his own health.

Rama, Sita, and Lakhmana crossed a long way walking and arrived before the Citrukut Mountains. The prince started living there making a small hut. There was no luxury in this life. They used to live their life taking fruits from the forest and killing the wild deer. Bharata came to Rama with a request to return but failed to convince Rama. In fact the whole life of Shree Shree Rama Chandra was of sacrifice and patience which are examples for us.

Lessons from the myth: The stories of the great personalities regarding their sacrifice and patience inspire us. By doing similar things human beings can elevate themselves to the status of gods. Sacrifice and patience are two of the best qualities of human beings which can establish us in the society as great persons. These two qualities lead human beings to the ways dignity and honor. These are the great qualities of human life. Everybody respects a selfless person.

Lesson 8 : Importance of living an honest life

One that possesses the great virtues, such as honesty, truthfulness, concentration, sacrifice, tolerance, forbearance etc, is known as an honest person. An honest person can never do any harm to anybody. He/She dispels the mental darkness of all with his/her enlightened life.

He/She works for the establishment of peace in place of all unrest in the society even at the cost of his own life. He/She tries to do good to all with his/her love and affection, kindness and sympathy. He/She tries to make everybody conscious so that society may get rid of wrong and injustice, and the strong may not inflict torture upon the weak. Whenever the honest people appear in the society, it becomes an abode of peace and a haven of prosperity. So everyone must live an honest life for well being of us all, for establishment of peace in the society and for establishment of prosperity and discipline in the country. There have to be brotherhood and sympathy among all through the practice of honesty in the society. And this is how there will be establishment of a peaceful and disciplined society.

It can therefore be concluded that living an honest life is very essential to establishment of a beautiful and peaceful society.

Lesson 9: The role of the family in living an honest life

When one is born, one is born with neither honesty, virtue nor vice. After birth, man slowly acquires a variety of virtues due to the impacts of the family and the surroundings. Man is slave to instincts. Man nourishes two instincts good or honest and bad or dishonest. When an honest virtue drives a man towards a work it is good work and a man of dishonest virtue always does bad work. As a result of good work, one is known to be an honest man. Every one loves and respects him. And the family plays a vital role in the acquisition of these virtues. When the head of the family possesses honest virtues, their members are likely to acquire them.

Since the family is the first tier of the society, each member of the family should acquire patience, forbearance, tolerance, forgiveness, sympathy etc, to strengthen this tier. At the same time they should give up the bad instincts such as envy malice, greed, leist etc and live a life of honesty and justice.

Exercise

Fill in the gaps.

1. Forbearance means
2. Worldly enjoyment increases human being's
3. To eliminate other's suffering is
4. Sacrifice brings in mind.
5. One of the characteristics of Hindu religion is to show.....to others.

Match the phrases in the left with those in the right.

Left	Right
1. Morality cannot be developed	a. there is no forbearance
2. If there is no sacrifice	b. always respected
3. A self denying person is	c. God is satisfied with you.
4. If you are kind to God's creatures	d. without kindness
	e. with a view to making one powerful

Answer the following questions

1. What is honesty? Give two examples of honesty.
2. Why did Laksman take exile to forest with Rama & Shita?
3. Why did Kaikeyi ask the boons to King Dasharath?

Answer the following questions:

1. Explain sacrifice and patience with examples.
2. Explain how sacrifice can bring peace in family and social life.

Multiple choice questions

1. When did Vishnu himself appear as Rama?
 - a. Satya Yuga
 - b. Dwapar Yuga
 - c. Treta Yuga
 - d. Koli Yuga

2. A person who is influenced by patience is always

- i. laborious
- ii. patient
- iii. kind

Which one in the below is correct?

- a. i
- b. ii
- c. ii and iii
- d. i, ii, and iii

3. Kindness to creatures leads to

- i. social welfare.
- ii. strengthening of social ties.
- iii. creating joyful situation.

Which of the below is a correct answer?

- a. i
- b. i and ii
- c. i and iii
- d. i, ii, and iii

Read the passage and answer questions 4 & 5.

Arnab and Sajal are students of class seven. Sajal's father suddenly became ill and so he is unable to pay for his tuition fees. Arnab donates Sajal the money he has for his own dress. Sajal is relieved of his anxiety. He pays attention to his studies.

4. In this situation what quality of Sajal is expressed?

- a. sacrifice
- b. duty
- c. service
- d. patience

5. This type of behavior of Arnab towards Sajal is due to

- I. friendship
- II. kindness
- III. sympathy

Which one in the below is correct?

- a. i
- b. i and ii
- c. ii and iii
- d. i, ii and iii

Creative questions

Nilratan and Monorama are passing their family life happily. They have passed a few years but didn't have any kid. Doctors say that they have no possibilities of having any kid either. As a result, they are frustrated. Their house-maid Dinonath notices this. He is a poor man and has two children. Dinonath makes his wife agree to give one of their children to Monorama and act accordingly. Peace comes back to Monorama- Nilratan's family.

- a. What is forbearance?
- b. Explain how peace can be established in society through forbearance?
- c. What characteristics of Rama are revealed through Dinanath's character?
- d. Evaluate the statement – 'The main reason of happiness in Monorama and Nilratan's family is the role of Dinanath.'

Chapter Seven

Some ideal biographies

All humans are not alike. Some people are quite busy with themselves. They only think of their own interests. They are very common. But there are people quite opposite to this type. They also think about others' welfare. And sometimes they help others at the expense of their own wellbeing. Some of them sacrifice their own happiness for the greater interest of the world. They are great personalities. Their biographies are ideal biographies. We can learn a lot from them. It helps us make our life beautiful. We can work for the betterment of the world following their examples. In this chapter the biographies of six great men and women are given. They are Shree Krishna, Swami Vivekanando, Maa Sarada Devi, Sadhak Rama Prasad, and Pravu Jagadbandhu.

After we have finished the lesson, we will be able to

- describe the childhood and youth of Shree Krishna in terms of his efforts for establishing love, justice, generosity or some other ideals.
- explain the importance of Shree Chaitanya Deva and his teachings in exercising morality.
- explain the importance of Maa Sarada Devi and her teachings in exercising morality.
- explain the importance of Sadhak Rama Prasad and his in exercising morality.
- explain the importance of Pravu Jagadbandhu and his teachings in exercising morality.
- be encouraged to follow the teachings of the great men and women in our life.

Lesson 1, 2, and 3: Shree Krishna

Lord Shree Krishna saved the lives of the children of Gokul from the demons (asuras) during his childhood. As a result, the tyrant King of Mathura, Kangsa tried to kill him many times but failed. Shree Krishna could save himself as well the children of Gokul from all his ill motives. It made Kangsa more aggressive. He inflicted newer tortures on the inhabitants of Gokul. As a consequence, all the milk persons (gopes) left Gokul for Brindaban. Shree Krishna and Balarama also accompanied them. There Shree Krishna became their leader.

Though Krishna left Gokul, it mattered very little to Kangso. He was determined to kill Krishna. One after another he sent spies to Brindaban with a view to killing Shree Krishna. They took different disguises. But Lord Shree Krishna with his extraordinary power could know about them beforehand and killed them. Thus, as he could save himself, he could save other children of Gokul. Some incidents of his childhood and adolescent periods are narrated here

The killing of Batsasur

Once Shree Krishna, Balaram, and other cowboys were grazing their cattle. Then a disciple of Kangsa came with the disguise of a calf to kill Krishna. He was grazing with other calves and cows so that none could identify him. But Shree Krishna could identify him rightly as Batsasur. So he dashed him on a tree holding his tail and legs. Batsasur died.

The killing of Bokasur

When Batsasur died, Kangsa sent Bokasur to kill Shree Krishna. One day the cow boys were playing on the bank of a river. Shree Krishna was with them. The cowboys saw a huge bird - crane in the sea shore. As soon as Krishna approached the bird, it came to swallow him. Krishna then hold its beaks and torn them out. Thus Bokasur died.

Killing of Aughasur

Aughasur was the brother of a demon, Putna. Kangsa told him, “Krishna has killed your sister. Take revenge on him”. Aughasur agreed and went to Brindaban.

One day Krishna and other cowboys were playing in one side of a forest. Aughasur reached there and taking the shape of a huge python he opened his mouth in a way so that everybody could mistake it as a cave. The cowboys came before it playing. Considering it a cave they entered there. Entering there Krishna could understand that it was not a cave, it was a demon. So he stood in a way so that the breathing system of the python could be suspended. Aughasur died. All the cowboys were saved including Shree Krishna himself.

Thus Kangsa sent many demons such as Oristasur, demon Keshi, and Bomyasur to kill Krishna. But everyone was killed by Krishna. So not only he but other cow boys were saved.

Individual work: Why did Shree Krishna kill Batsasur and Bokasur?
--

Besides, Shree Krishna did many welfare works such as taming of Kalio, drinking of wildfire, killing of Shankhachur, holding of Gobordhon etc.

Taming of Kalio

Once a very poisonous snake, Kalio, took shelter in Kalindi Lake being afraid of Gorur. It was making the lakes water poisonous. If anybody drank the water of that lake, she or he would die instantly. One day Shree Krishna was playing beside the lake with his companions. Some boys drank the water of that lake. They died instantly though they were back to life by the grace of Lord Krishna. Krishna understood that there must be a poisonous snake in the lake which was making the lake water poisonous. Using his special power he came to know about Kalio nag (snake). Krishna then jumped into the river. Considering him food, Kalio encircled him. Krishna too caught hold of its throat in a way so that it was about to die.

Then Kalio could understand that Krishna was not any common human being, rather he was Vagaban. Then he sought merci to Krishna. Krishna ordered him to leave the lake then and there. Kalio returned to his own abode in the Ramanak Island. Then the water of Kalindi became drinkable again.

One day all the milk-persons were staying in the wood on the bank of the Jamuna. All of a sudden, fires broke out in the wood. Fires were spreading fast and there was no way to escape. All were crying out to survive. Then Krishna promised to protect them. He told them to keep relaxed. He then ate up the fires with his devine powers. Consequently, all managed to escape unhurt.

Individual work: How did the poisonous water of Kalindi become drinkable?

Lifting of Govardhana

One day all the milk persons arranged Indra puja. Seeing that Krishna asked Nanda, "Dad, why are you worshipping Indra?" Nanda replied, "Indra is the God for rain. Since he creates rain; grass, trees or creepers are grown. Our cows eat them and grow up. When they are healthy, they give us more milk. So we are worshipping Indra." Krishna replied, "This mountain Govardhana also helps grow grasses, creepers, and trees. It helps gather clouds and make them pour as rain towards our land. This ultimately makes our cows healthy too. So let us worship Govardhana.'

So far Krishna made many impossible things possible. He saved the milk people from many disasters. So nobody dared ignore his words. Therefore all the milk people together worshipped Govardhana following several upachar.

Unlike previous years this time Indra didn't get any puja from the milk persons and so he became very annoyed. He ordered clouds to cause heavy downpour and thunderstorms. They began. Everything was being swept away. The milk persons started crying.

Shree Krishna then lifted the big Govardhana Giri with his small finger and held it as an umbrella. Village people were astonished to see Krishna lifting Govardhana Giri and rushed to under the Govardhana Giri, umbrella. They were all happy that Krishna had saved them from heavy rain.

Indra on seeing this understood his mistake and realized that it was willfully done by Vishnu himself who was born as Krishna-avatar. He felt bad on his part of being arrogant. He bowed before Krishna and confessed his mistake. He apologised to Krishna. Then everything became normal. Since Krishna lifted Govardhana Giri, one of his names is Giridhari.

Learning from Shree Krishna: The lesson we get from the life of Shree Krishna is that God (Vagawan) loves his creatures. He appears as an avatar with a view to punishing the criminals and protecting the innocent. Though God, He behaves like a human being in this situation. He mixes with other human beings normally. He does everything possible and impossible for their betterments. He comes forward to save them from any kind of dangers.

The courage Krishna has shown in killing Batsasur, or python-like Aughasur in his childhood encourages us to be brave. The taming of Kalio Nag and making the poisonous water drinkable shows Krishna's concern for public welfare. On the other hand, Krishna sets example of forgiveness by not killing it- rather forgiving it. The myths of drinking the fire and upholding Govardhana for others express Krishna's ideals for social welfare. So we will respect others and will try our best to do good to others.

Individual work: a. Identify Shree Krishna's activities for his love for creatures b. Evaluate the role of Shree Krishna in establishing justice.

Group work: Identify the areas where we can apply Shree Krishna's teachings.

Lesson 4, 5, and 6: Shree Chaitanya

Shree Chaitanya was born at Nabadwip under the West Bengal province in India on 18 February, 1486. His father was Jagannath Misra and mother was Shachi Devi. Jagannath Misra's parental home was in Dhaka Dakkhin village under Shreehatta (now in Sylhet). He went to Nabadwip for educational purpose. Later he married Shachi Devi who was a daughter of Nilambar Chakravarty and settled there.

Jagannath Misra had two sons - Biswarup and Nimai. This Nimai was later known as Chaitanya Dev.

Nimai 's elder brother Biswarup left home when he was young and took the life of a sage. When Nimai was ten years old his father died. His mother was in trouble with the younger son. Nimai was very naughty and restless during his childhood. But he was very meritorious. Shachi Devi sent him to the Chatuspathi of Gangadas Pundit. He was adored by all for his merit and look. His Guru (teacher) was very happy to have a student like him. It is previously said that though Nimai was naughty and restless in nature, he was very sincere to his studies. This is why within a very short time he gained mastery over grammar, figurate language, law and ethics. By the age of sixteen he became famous as Nimai Pundit throughout the country. This time he set a tole (a kind of school) and started teaching. Within a short time he became famous for his teaching style. His mother Sachi Devi was very happy with her son's fame. She had a merry feeling in her heart. She decided to marry her son off and so he selected a bride. The bride was Laxmi Devi, the virtuous daughter of Pundit Ballavachariya. Shachi Devi did a great job this time. She could take huge dowry in her son's marriage. But she was dead against this evil custom. Without taking any dowry she arranged her son's marriage.

Individual work: Write on the childhood of Shree Chaitanya Dev

Here one example is given to show how much great pundit Nimai was. That time there was a great intellectual named Keshaba Misra in Kashmir. He defeated many intellectuals from Kanshi, Kanchi, Nalanda and some other places in intellectual debates on religious matters. He came to Nabadwip. He threw challenges to other intellectuals saying 'either take the challenge of debates or accept my superiority'. As he was very famous, the intellectuals of Nabadwip became afraid. But Nimai came forward. Nimai and that pundit exchanged greetings beside the river Ganges. As requested by Nimai, Keshaba Misra composed more than a hundred verses on the Ganges (gangastotro) verbally. Then Nimai started his discussions. He showed the flaws in the verses. Hearing those arguments other intellectuals present there were astonished. Keshaba Misra himself admitted his mistakes. This spread Nimai's fame in Nabadwip like anything.

Nimai came to eastern part of Bengal. After going back to Nabadwip he came to know that his wife Laxmi Devi died by a snake bite. It hurt him very much. He developed a kind of apathy for his family. Gradually he became more passionate for religious matters. Understanding this, his mother again married him off with Bishnupriya who was a daughter of Sanatan Pundit.

A few years passed happily. Then Nimai went to Kanshidham with a view to offering pinda for the salvation of his departed father's soul. He was initiated there by Ishwarpuri with the name of Krishna. It changed his mind totally. After coming back to Nabadwip, he left his teaching profession and his family life. He just started passing his time chanting Krishnanam. Some other vaishnabas in Nabadwip joined him. Among them were Nityananda, Shreebash, Godadhar, Mukunda, Adoitwachariya and so on. They all were very close to him but Nityananda was the closest.

Nimai used to sing Krishnanam going to others' place and even roaming through the paths of the villages. It irritated some people. Some of them resisted his activities too. Two drunkard brothers, Jagaya and Madhya once attacked Nimai and Nityananda. However Nimai changed them with the spirit of love. Gradually they all could realize their mistakes and were attracted to Nimai's path of love, respect and religion.

On the other hand, Nimai entirely lost her attraction for her family life. He started thinking to leave his family. Afterwards, one mid night he left his home keeping his mom, wife, and followers behind in the month of Magha during the lunar period. He went to Katoya and took initiation for the life of a sage from Kesaba Varati. Then he was named Shree Krishnachaitanya, in short - Shree Chaitanya.

Shree Chaitanya travelled many places of India to preach his philosophy. He went to Puri, the Dekan, Brindaban, Kanshi and some other places but he spent the last eighteen years of his life in a place name Nilachal in Puri. His followers Shreerup, Sanatan, Raghu Nath Vatta, Raghu Nath Das, Shreejib, Gopal Vatta and other famous Vaishnava pundits accompanied him.

During his stay in Nilachal, Shree Chaitanya used to be too obsessed in Krishnanam. In such a condition one morning of Ashara in 1533, he entered the temple of Jagannath Dev. Suddenly the door closed. Everyone was waiting outside eagerly. After some time when the door was opened, Shree Chaitanya Dev was not found there. It was only the sculpture of Jagannath Dev inside the temple. The followers of Shree Chaitanya Dev believe that he was lost in the image of Jagannath Dev.

It was a time when the Hindu society was highly affected by the custom of untouchability and caste prejudice. Everybody hated the sudra and chandal. However Shree Chaitanya did not abide by those prejudices. The religion he practised was of love. That religion did not have any room for the distinction between the upper or lower class, caste system, or untouchability. He had affection for everyone and gave shelter to everyone. Though he came from a Brahmin family, he did not hesitate to eat with the chandal in the same sitting. It helped minimize the distinction and conflict among different castes in the Hindu community to a large extent. Thus Shree Chaitanya could save the Hindu community from different sorts of degeneration. And it was a big achievement of Shree Chaitanya Dev.

The love of Shree Chaitanya Dev did not differentiate between the Hindus and the other religious practitioners such as the Muslims or the Christians. Everyone was dear to him as he could love them all. He says:

He is great who prays, who doesn't pray is mean

There is no question of religion or caste for Krishna's prayer A true Vaishnava has no pride

If you love creatures, Krishna will stay with you.

Learnings from Shree Chaitanya: The story of Shree Chaitanya gives us this moral teaching that we should not boast of our intellectual ability. We should be modest always. If anybody misbehaves with us, we should win the person with our good behaviour. We should not do any distinction among the human beings. Everybody should be equally honoured like Krishna. Nobody should be hated in a society. All human beings are equal. We should pay equal attitudes to everyone. If we can ensure these qualities, we will be able to make everyone in a society happy. It makes the society itself better.

Individual work:

- a. Identify the areas of moral lessons from the ideal life of Shree Chaitanya Dev.
 - b. Narrate the influence of Shree Chaitanya Dev on social life.
- Group work: How will you apply the lessons you learn from Chaitanya Dev?

Lesson 7, 8 and 9: Sadhak Ram Prasad

Rama Prasad was a worshipper of motherly power (matrishokti). He prayed to Kali considering her the Brahma. Kali was a representation of God to him. He believed that Kali stands for Hari, Brahma, Shiva, Durga or any other deity. So he said:

Kali Brahma jene mormo Dhormadhormo sob vulechi.

(Realizing the importance of Kali as Brahma, I have given up the other considerations.)

Rama Prasad was born in the month of Ashwin in 1127 (1720 AD). His birth place was Halishahar, a village beside the Ganges. His father's name is Ram Ram Sen and mother's name was Sarbeshwari Devi.

Rama Prasad was very meritorious since his childhood. He was efficient in Sanskrit, Urdu, and Bangla languages. By the age of sixteen it was obvious that he had unique poetic power. But he did not have any attraction for family life. To make him family bound, he was married off. His wife was Sarbani Devi.

But it did not make any change. His interest in prayer increased more. He became more careless regarding family affairs. At this juncture, his father died. As a result, he became the person to look after his family. Therefore, with a view to earning money one day he started for Kolkata.

Then the Zamindar of Goranhat in Kolkata was Durga Charan Mitra. Rama Prasad joined his court as an accountant. His job was to maintain account. But his mind lay with the thoughts of Kali. He often composed lyrics based on Maa (the motherly power) or Shyama on the pages of the ledger book. They are called matrisangit or Syamasangit. This information gradually reached the Zamindar. He called upon Rama Prasad with the ledger. Rama Prasad was afraid but went to see the Zamindar. Rama Prasad was nervous to lose his job. But the result was just the opposite. The Zamindar was too impressed to read his compositions. He told him "You are not born to be an accountant. You are born to do more glorious work. Get back home. Devote yourself to the prayer of Maa and compose more Syamasangit. Your salary of taka thirty will remain as it is."

Thus Zamindar Durgacharan appreciated Ramprasad's respect to Maa. Rama Prasad returned to his own village Halishahar. He could somehow manage to keep his body and soul together with the money sent by the Zamindar. His prayer to Maa and composing Syamasangit continued on.

Individual work: Why did Zamindar Durgaciaran honour rama prasad?

Rama Prasad used to sing his composed songs alone sitting on the bank Ganges. His melodious tune could halt the oars of the boatmen. One day Nowab Sirajuddola was passing through the place by a bazra. He also stopped his bazra and enjoyed sweet songs of Rama Prasad to his heart's content.

The fame of the worshipping maa and Syamasangit of Rama Prasad spread everywhere. It was his passion. Gradually the Maharaja of Nadia came to know about this. One day he personally came to Halishahar. He offered Rama Prasad to be the poet laureate. But Rama Prasad did not agree, as the one and only thing mattered to him was to worship Maa. So he refused the proposal politely. The Maharaja was so impressed with his potential that he donated Rama Prasad some tax-free land. The Maharaja requested him to compose a book titled 'Bidyasundor'. The devotee poet Rama Prasad finished writing the book on time and handed it to the Maharaja. Maharaja gave it to his court-poet, Varatchandra Raigunakar to read it. Varatchandra was overwhelmed to read the book and as per his suggestion the Maharaja honoured Rama Prasad with the title 'Kabiranjana'.

Divine mother Shyama was the only thoughts and feelings of Rama Prasad. He always thought about Maa, no matter whether while sleeping, dreaming, eating, or travelling. He didn't have any fascination for anything else. He did his work by hands but went on chanting the name of Syama Maa. As a consequence, Shyama Maa too became very close to her. She appeared before him as a daughter. The incident was like this:

One day Rama Prasad was Putting up the fence of his house. His daughter Jagadishwari was helping him from the other side of the fence. At one stage, Jagadishwari left the place for playing games as she was just a mere child. At this stage, Shyama Maa helped him assuming the image of his daughter. After a long time, Jagadishwari came back and saw that his father had finished the fencing work. She told her father everything. Then Rama Prasad understood that it was Shyama Maa who helped him. Rama Prasad started crying with the names of the Syama Maa. Tears of respect were pouring from his eyes.

Rama Prasad continued his worshipping. It turned to be more serious practice day by day. Day and night he keeps himself obsessed with the thoughts of Maa. As a result of his austere practice one day Maa came to her. She stood before Rama Prasad illuminating all around. Rama Prasad offered his floral respect on Maa's feet. His long endeavour was successful. Rama Prasad set an example of worshipping God as Maa/mother. And this example later could influence other devotees such as Shree Ram Krishna, Bama Khyapa and others.

As a means of worships the songs Rama Prasad composed are some invaluable wealth in Bangla music. His songs are known as 'ramprasadi'. As this music can be sung for the worship of God, they can be sung to express one's regards for the biological mother. We all know that a mother is the dearest person to every child. May be from this realization Rama Prasad could worship God considering as a motherly-power. This great worshipper of motherly power left this earthly abode in 1785.

Learning from Rama Prasad: The life of Rama Prasad highlights devotion. The moral teaching here is by dint of our devotion we can succeed in any hardship. Secondly, by worshipping God as motherly -power, we can pay respect to our own biological mother too. Devotion is not only needed at religious practices, it is also needed for other aspects in life. We all should work with devotion being free from any kind of earthly pleasures.

Individual work: Identify the incidents and teachings from the life of Rama Prasad.

Lesson 10, 11, and 12: Sarada Devi

Sarada Devi was born in a village named Joyrambati under the district of Bankura in West Bengal on 18 Poush 1260 (1853 AD). It was Thursday. Her father was Ram Chandra Mukhopadhyay, and mother was Shyama Sundari. She was named Thakurmoni Devi after her birth. She had another two names. Her mother named her Khemangkori and one of her loving aunt named her Sarada. Afterwards she was known after her aunt-given name. She was the first child of her parents. She had another sister and five brothers.

The family of Sarada Devi was not solvent. They could barely survive the harvest from their small amount of farming land and the small income her father had from priesthood. It was a time when people used to believe that if girls were literate, they would not help in household chores. So Sarada's father was entirely careless about her education. However, Sarada Devi often went to Pathshala with her brothers from her own interest. Thus she could learn a little how to read but she didn't learn how to write. However, she could learn many things from the Kathak Thakur, watching jatra or hearing kirtana.

Individual work: Write about the childhood of Sarada Devi.

Sarada Devi was married to Khudiram Chottopadhyay's son Godadhor. This Godadhor is the famous devotee Ramakrishna Paramahansa Dev. Sarada Devi did not enjoy her husband's company for long. Their conjugal life was not a long one too, only for about one and a half years after their marriage, Ramkrishna came to Dakshineswar. Sarada Devi returned to her paternal home. After two years they met again at Joyrambati. After spending some days there Ramkrishna again returned to Dakkhinswar. Seven years passed by. Then Ramkrishna came to Kamar Pukur to see his birthplace. There he met Sarada Devi again. This time Ramkrishna gave many sermons to Sarada Devi regarding life and God. He said, "Ishwar (God) is very dear to everyone. If one loves him heartily and pray to her honestly, she can see Him. If you pray properly, you too will be able to see him. To realise Him is the objective of human life."

This advice of her husband touched Sarada Devi's heart. She took these words as her secret mantra and started a stoic life. Unlike many other women she never tied herself with the family matters. She sacrificed her husband to a life of devotion. After seven months Ramkrishna again came back to Dakkhineswar. Sarada Devi again returned to her parents.

A long time passed away. Sarada Devi was anxious for her husband. She decided to go to Dakshineswar. She shared her decision with her father. Ram Chandra set out for Dakshineswar with his daughter. It was back in 1872. There was bath ceremony (gangasnan) at the bank of the river Ganges in Kolkata during the full moon of Falgun. They started their journey to Dakshineswar keeping this ceremony ahead. Walking a long way they somehow arrived Dakkhineswar.

After coming to Dakshineswar Sarada Devi engaged herself to take care of her husband. She was very careful so that there were no lapses in her duty. She involved herself to the devotion of God as was suggested by her husband. Soon she earned a new identity for herself. Everybody started calling her Srima.

Group work: Mention the reasons of Sarada Devi. being called shreima.

Sarada Devi proved her worth as a perfect partner for Ramkrishna through her devotion, her behaviour and prayers. Everybody respected her very much. She too considered everyone as her own child and had affection for all. Thus husband and wife both involved them in the service to God.

Ramkrishna died on 31 Sravan, 1923 (15 August, 1886). Srima became absolutely lonely by losing her life partner, though her fans and followers used to surround her. She started visiting sacred places to pacify her mind. She visited Kanshi, Brindaban, Puri and other religious places. It could calm her mind to a certain extent.

Sarada Devi did not have academic education but she was very liberal. She was out of superstitions. An incident with Sister Nibedita proves this statement. One day Vivekananda sent Sister Nibedita to meet Sarada Devi. One of Sarada Devi's disciples asked her whether she was interested to see a foreigner lady. Sarada replied, "Naren has sent me a white lotus. How can I refuse it?" Long ago welcoming a foreigner this way was not easy and she could do it only for her liberal attitudes.

Srima became very ill during her later days. She called on her follower Saradananda and told her, "Perhaps my time for departure is too near." After a few days Sarada Maa left her earthly body on 4 Sravan 1327 (1920 AD). Her cremation was done in the Belur Moth. Next year a temple for women (matrimondir) was erected there.

Some advices of Sarada Devi

1. Hold patience like the earth. There are tortures on the earth too. The earth endures them. Human beings need endurance like the earth.
2. If you want peace, don't blame anyone. Try to make the world your own. None is a stranger. This is your world.
3. Do worshipping or adoration at the early stage. It is difficult to do at the later stage. Do it now whatever you can.

The first thing we learn from Sarada Devi's life is sacrifice. Nothing can be achieved without sacrifice. Godadhar became Shree Rarnkrishna because of Sarada Devi's sacrifice. Those who are very much involved in worldly activities cannot go far. Human beings should have patience. Peace will not prevail in a society if people are impatient. Instead of finding others' fault, it is better to realize one's own faults. Thus one can be able to love this creation and hold everyone. Acts of prayer or devotion should be done in young age when a person is physically sound. A weak body cannot be supportive to any activities.

We will always remember the lessons of Sarada Devi and will abide by them.

Group work: Identify the main happenings of Sarada Devi and their lessons.

Lessons 13, 14, 15 and 16: Swami Vivekananda

Swami Vivekananda was born in Kolkata on 12 January 1863. His father Biswa Nath Dutta was a famous lawyer. He was an intellectual too and knew many languages. His mother, Vuboneswari Debi was a skilled homemaker.

Vivekananda's original name was Narendra Nath Dutta. He had another name in his childhood – Bireshwar. But everybody called him 'Bilay' adoringly.

Vivekananda had a short life of only 39 years 5 months and 23 days. His contribution to humanity during this short period of life is simply unique. Humankind will always remember his contribution.

It has been previously said that in his childhood everybody called him Bilay. Though he was very naughty and adamant, he was very intelligent. His academic performance was always very brilliant. Besides, he was expert in music and sports.

From his childhood Bilay showed his diverse potentials. He was truthful as well as courageous. An example can be given here. One day a teacher was teaching in the classroom. Bilay was chatting with some of his friends that time. Seeing that the teacher became very furious. He asked them few questions. Nobody could answer except Bilay. He could answer the questions because he was listening to his teacher though chatting with his friends. The teacher asked the group to remain standing except Bilay. But Bilay stood up with others. The teacher said, "You don't need to stand up". Bilay replied, "I too took part in the chatting. So I'm a wrong doer too." The teacher became very happy with Bilay's honesty and courage. This honesty and courage is reflected in his actions throughout his life.

Bilay used to respect the saints and sages very much. He used to love the poor people as well. Seeing anyone in distress, he used to collect cloths, foods, and everything possible from his home to distribute among them.

Individual work : How did Biley show honesty and fearlessness.

There were symptoms from his childhood that one day Bilay would be a heroic saint like Swami Vivekananda. During his childhood Bilay was the team leader of his group. He often chose meditations as his favourite game with his friends. Sometimes he practiced it alone. Meditation was one of his favourite games.

Gradually Bilay grew up. He did well in the examinations of schools and colleges. At this stage everybody started using his original name, Narendra to call him. He passed BA too. In the mean time, he gained sufficient knowledge in law and Philosophy. But suddenly there was change in his mind. He often thought about God. He was tormented by some questions - Does God exist? Can we see Him? Many times he asked these questions to others but was not satisfied at the answers. Eventually, he met the famous devotee, Ramkrishna who was staying at Dakkhineshwar Kali Bari. Narendra Nath went there one day and asked Ramkrishna "Have you seen God?" Ramkrishna replied laughing, "Yes, I have seen Him as I see you. I can show Him to you if you desire".

Narendra liked this simple man. He felt a kind of respect for him. He started going to Dakkhineshwar regularly. He was initiated for sacrifice from Ramkrishna. Narendra became a home leaving saint. He was named Vivekananda. Later his followers called him Swami or Swamiji.

Vivekananda left home but his mind was occupied with the idea of the well being for India and her people. So he set out for different parts of the country. He wanted to see the condition of his country people. He travelled the whole of India. He saw the poverty in his country. He saw how people were suffering from illiteracy. He was sorry to see the abject condition of the people. He wanted to know the reasons behind this situation. At the same time, he started thinking seriously how to make people free from such sufferings.

India was governed by the British rule that time. He could realize that the nation was being ruined by the rules of the foreigners. He felt that the nation should be rescued. He realized that the country would not succeed without freedom. He fixed up his mind to remove poverty and illiteracy. He understood that the welfare of the country lies in the love for humanity, and arousal of confidence in everybody's mind.

Group work: Which steps did Vivekanande advocate for the development of the country?

He went to America in 1893. He gave a lecture at the Conference of World's Religions in Chicago in 1893. He began his speech with "Sisters and Brothers of America, though others started their speech with 'ladies and gentlemen'. Everyone was impressed to hear this new address. They really liked his approach of making people of a different country close by addressing them brothers and sisters. He said that in Hinduism all religions are equal. All religions have the same objective. As all rivers go to the sea, similarly all religions have the same objective to gain the blessings of God. So people in the world need cooperation - not conflict; exchange of love not destruction; coordination and peace not difference of opinion. Everybody became very happy with the speech of Vivekananda. He was judged the best speaker. Vivekananda was only thirty years and eight months old then.

After this event Vivekananda became very popular in the US. He had requests from many places for more lectures. Vivekananda responded to these requests and won the American people with his lectures. Then he went to Europe. He gave many lectures in England, France, Italy, and some other countries. People of Europe could know about Hindu religion and its philosophy from his lectures once more. Thus many people became his earnest fans. Margaret Elizabeth Noble was the most notable among them. She was so influenced by the ideals of Vivekananda that she left her own homeland, Ireland for India. She took initiation from Vivekananda and from then on she is known as sister Nibedita.

After four years Vivekananda put a stop to his world tour and came back to country in 1897. People welcomed him warmly and gave him a huge reception. In that reception he urged the people to come forward to resist any kind of injustice. He also asked everyone to come out of superstitions. He urged everyone to come to a common platform forgetting all types of distinctions. He stressed that power and bravery are synonymous to religion. He noted weakness and cowardice as sins too. He also reminded that liberty stands for religion whereas dependence stands for sin.

Individual work: What are the reasons of Vivekananda being the best speaker at the conference of world's Religions?

According to Vivekananda truth is the basis of all religions. Religion means helping others while torturing others is sin too. Self honesty and sincere work are parts of religion. Members of disadvantageous castes such as the shoe menders, cleaners, illiterate people, or poor people are our brothers. To serve these people is highly religious. He believed that to gain success we need both self confidence and belief in God. He also emphasized body building of young fellows before their involvement in religious practices. A fragile body is neither supportive of religious practices, nor for any other work. So, students should play football before reading the Gita, as he observed, because it will make their body fit. Then they will have better understanding of the Gita. Poverty too is a barrier in religious practices. Therefore, eradication of poverty is a must. He also maintained that other creatures should be served as God as this is a service towards God. In this respect we can remember his famous quotes:

Bahurupē sammukhe tomar, chari kotha khujicho ishwar?

Jibe prem kore jei jon, sei jon sebiche ishwar

(Meaning: Why are you trying to search for God separately? God stays before you in different shapes. He who serves the creatures serves God.)

It has been previously said that Vivekananda never believes in any sort of distinctions. He also hated untouchability. He established a shrine or math in remembrance of his guru Ramkrishna Paramahansa dev. This math is called Ramkrishna Math. It is situated at the west part of the Ganges in the district of Howrah, West Bengal. This shrine is commonly known as Belur Math. This was established with the mission of serving the humanity.

Vivekananda also established the Ramkrishna mission to preach his guru's philosophy. There are many branches of these math and mission all over the world. They are administered by Belur Math. The centre of the maths and missions working in Bangladesh is the Ramkrishna Mission in Dhaka. Millions of people around the world are offered service from these centres. The services offered from here include education, treatment, emergency help etc.

Vivekananda used to offer help to humanity irrespective of religious or national identity. Once there was extreme famine in Kolkata. Ramkrishna mission opened some shelter centres. Some Muslim boys came there to stay. When asked what to do with those Muslim boys, Vivekananda assured that they would certainly stay there.

He also directed his people to ensure their proper food and support for their own religious practices.

Vivekananda was very hard working. Work was his life. It badly affected his body very soon. As a result, he passed away on 4 July 1902 at Belur Math.

Learning from Vivekananda: We learn from Vivekananda's life that honesty and bravery are two of the best qualities of human beings. Without them none can proceed in life. All people in the world belong to one clan. Individual beings may have separate religious faith but the basis of all religions is the same - Truth is religion. Fellow feelings or liberty are parts of religion. Subjugation or torturing others is also sins. He also teaches that poverty should be eliminated from human beings before asking them to follow religious formalities. Nobody listens to religious sermons if they don't have food to survive. Besides, there is no distinction between the rich and poor; between a show mender and a cleaner. All are brothers. No human being is untouchable whatever his occupation is. Self confidence and trust to God are pre conditions of development. We also learn that our body should be healthy and strong because with a weak body neither religion nor other activities can be done properly.

We will apply the teachings of Vivekananda to our personal life. Then we will succeed in life.

Group work: Identify the areas of lessons from Vivakananda's life.

Lesson 17, 18, 19, and 20: Prabhu Jagadbandhu

Prabhu Jagadbandhu was born in Dahapara village under Murshidabad district in West Bengal on 17 May 1871. His father was Dinanath Chakravarty and mother was Barna Devi. He was the third child of his parents. His paternal home is at Komorpur village in Faridpur district. The village was immersed in the river Padma and then they started living in Gobindapur village. Dinanath was a scriptures-specialist Brahmin. He earned the title 'nayratna' as recognition of his intellectual abilities. He went to Murshidabad as part of his job. There he lost his wife in early life. Jagadbandhu himself was at his teens that time. After his wife's death, he came back to his own village Gobindapur. Then his cousin Digambari took the responsibilities of looking after him.

When Jagadbandhu was five years old, he lost his father. After few months their village, Gobindapur, was immersed in the river Padma. Then the Chakravarty family shifted to Brahmankanda, a suburb of Faridpur.

He was a student at Faridpur Zilla School. Later he took education from Pabna. There was a banyan tree near the town and a saint used to live under that tree. The saint had special power to utter infallible words. People called him Khyapa Baba. One day Jagadbandhu met him.

He used to call this man 'Old Shiva' (buro Shiv). Jagadbandhu frequently went to that man and gradually they developed a kind of intimacy. It resulted in change in Jagadbandhu. He was influenced by the spirit of Gouranga and started composing verses on devotion-based religious practices (vaktidharma). He often absorbed himself in meditation under the tree whenever he had any free time. Thus his education did not proceed far. However, he was able to attract a group of young people as his fans in Pabna town and the suburbs. His original name was Jagat. But his followers used to call him Prabhu Jagadbandhu. Later he was known after this name.

Suddenly one day Jagadbandhu left his companions and started for pilgrimage. After spreading Harinam at different holy places, villages, and towns he arrived at Shreedham, Brindaban. There he plunged himself into deeper and more serious practices. Gradually he became a lover of Shree Radha. Whenever he heard the name of Radha, he was lost in special feelings.

After spending some days there he returned to Faridpur. He came to Brahmankanda in 1890. That time the suburbs of Faridpur were mainly dominated by underprivileged people like the Snaotal, Bagdi, and Namhhsudra. They were hated and considered untouchable by the elite people. The heart of Jagadbandhu became too soft for them. He called the leader of the Bagdi community, Rajani. When he came, Jagadbandhu gave him a big hug. Rajani felt too pleased. He said, "We are from the lower class of the society. Everybody hates us. But how come you hug me!" Prabhu replied, "Who has said that you are from the lower class? There is no distinction between the upper and lower among human beings. Everyone is equal. You all are the disciples of Shree Hari. Everyone in your community belong to the Mohant clan. From now on your name is Haridas Mohant. Your job will be to chant Harinam for everyone's betterment. You all be blessed. Soon your sufferings will come to an end."

Rajani was impressed by the words from the Prabhu. After returning home he told it to others. Then everybody joined in Harinam. Within a very short time Haridas Mohant expressed himself as a famous podokirtaniya with the blessings of the Prabhu. Gradually this Harinam Sangkirtan practice spread to other places such as Faridpur, Barisal, Jessore, and some other places. And thus a new group, Mohanam Samproday, emerged. Shreepad Mohendraji had the highest contribution to organize this group and he was a fan of Prabhu Jagadbandhu.

The name of Prabhu Jagadbandhu spread over the West Bengal as well. The untouchable people such as domes (people belong to a class who are assigned to bum dead bodies) were inspired by his philosophy. They formed a few groups of Harinam Sangkirtana. They were known as Vrajajan (people from Vraja roaming to distribute Harinam). Thus they achieved the right to live as human being keeping their heads upright. The contribution of Prabhu Jagadbandhu in changing the society is unforgettable.

Individual Work : Describe the role of Jagadbandhu in changing the society?

One day Prabhu set out with his companions for travelling. Coming to a bushy place he declared that he would establish a Shree Angan there. The Shree Angan was established there as per his desire. It was the place where Prabhu started his Gomvira Lila. This Lila continued since Ashara 1309 (1902) till 16 Falgun 1325

(1918 AD) for long 16 years and eight months. During this time he was speechless. Just after three years he died in 1921.

Some advices of Prabhu Jagadbandhu

1. This is an age of holocaust (proloykal). Namkirtana is the only good here. Only Harinam can save this creation. Chant Harinam, only Harinam.
2. Don't hurt your parents being guided by naughty thoughts. If anyone doesn't see peace in the family, she/he won't see peace taking a life of a mystic.
3. Speaking unnecessarily is unfortunate. Don't create any room in your ears or heart to criticise others. Shake off criticisms. Write on the wall-no criticism of others.

Learning from Jagadbandhu: The moral lesson we have from the life of Jagadbandhu is all human beings are equal. None is superior and none is inferior. None is untouchable or a person to be hated. Everyone has equal rights in the society. We also understand that it's not fair to hurt other religion. Besides, blaming others or criticizing others is not a good thing. We must leave this habit. We will follow these lessons and inspire others to follow them.

Individual work: How will you apply the lessons you gain from the life of Prabhu Jagadbandhu?

Group work: Write ten sentences about a great man of woman of your acquaintances.

Exercise

Fill in the blanks.

1. Shree Krishna came to this world for
2. Sachi Devi struck at the botoom of the
3. Narendra's behaviours in the class proves
4. We will following the behaviour of Zamindar Durgadas.

Match the phrases in the left with those in the right.

Left side	Right side
1. Shree Krishna possesses	Durgacharan
2. The intellectual dignity of Nimai is	expressed through his counter debate. see own fault.
3. Courage means	titled ramprasad.
4. To avoid conflict first try to	divine knowledge.
5. Rama Prasad was	revealing the truth without any fear for punishment.

Answer the following questions in brief:

1. Why did the milk-people leave Gokul for Brindaban?
2. How did Batsasur try to kill Sri Krishna?
3. How did the pride of Keshob Chandra go to a fall?
4. Describe with examples the impacts of Prabhu Jagadbandhu's teachings on society.
5. How can we apply the teachings of Sarada Devi in our real life?

Answer the following questions:

1. How can we apply the lessons of taming of Kalio Nag in our social context?
2. Evaluate the result of Swami Vivakananda's presence in Chicago and his lecture there.
3. 'We need patience like the earth' – explain the statement with examples.
4. How did Rama Prasad succeed in his prayer?
5. Explain how the Harijan became the Vrajajan.

Multiple choice questions1. What is the name of Nimai's father?

- | | |
|-------------------|--------------------|
| a. Keshab Mitra | b. Jagannath Misra |
| c. Nilambar Misra | d. Jagath Misra |

2. Who were benefitted by the taming of Kalio nag?

- | | |
|------------|------------------|
| a. Balaram | b. Shree krishna |
| c. people | d. Kalindi |

3. The things we should discard from our manners.

- i. criticism to others.
- ii. telling lies.
- iii. gratefulness.

Which one of the below is correct:

- | | |
|---------------|-------------------|
| a. i and ii | b. i and iii |
| c. ii and iii | d. i, ii, and iii |

Read the following text. And answer question number 4, 5, and 6:

Banasree was sincerely maintaining her religious and family responsibilities as per husband's directions. She does her duties smilingly in spite of many obstacles. So everybody loves her.

4. Which great woman does the behaviour of Banasree reflects?

- | | |
|---------------|------------------|
| a. Mira Bai | b. Sarada Devi |
| b. Sachi Devi | d. Syama Sundari |

5. The teachings of that great woman is -

- i. Learn how to make everyone close to you. None is distant to you.
- ii. Do prayer or meditation at the young age.
- iii. The one, who does not find peace at home, does not find peace leaving home.

Which one is correct?

- | | |
|--------------|-------------------|
| a. i and ii | b. ii and iii |
| b. i and iii | d. i, ii, and iii |

6. The above mentioned lesson is shown in the practical life because

- i. Dijen considers everyone in the society dear to him.
- ii. Mala takes care of all creatures and does religious practices since her childhood.
- iii. Kamal left home due to disturbances in his family but he could not gain peace.

Which one of the following is correct?

- | | |
|---------------|-------------------|
| a. i and ii | b. i and iii |
| b. ii and iii | d. i, ii, and iii |

Creative questions

1. Professor Chitralekha is a Krishna lover. She is highly intelligent, and very amiable. Besides her sincere teaching, she writes books on human beings' worldly and spiritual development. She and her sons and daughters were married to other castes. She always thinks of the welfare of human beings and society. She wins everyone with open mindedness and love. Her prideless behaviour impresses everyone. She can overcome any struggle with smiles.
 - a. Who is a great human being?
 - b. There is no consideration of caste in the prayer of Krishna. Explain the sentence.
 - c. Which characteristic features of Krishna does Professor Chitralekha reflect?
 - d. Everyone likes a person who is not boastful. Explain the statement in the light of the stem and examples from Shree Krishna's life.

2. Animesh is an enthusiastic and amiable man. He has formed a samity in alliance with other young men in the locality. They do many kinds of social activities. They have established a cottage industry to help people in their village. They have also established a school for young people and a learning centre for the senior citizens. They also come up with help at the problems and dangers of the villagers. Apart from these, they organise nam-sanghirtana and dharmasava (religious study groups) in the evening for the mental and spiritual peace of others. Thus the name of Animesh and his samity spreads around. Animesh is happy to think that he has been able to unite people through positive thinking and work.
- Who was the initiation guru of Swami Vivekananda?
 - Explain the statement with examples – Service towards creatures is service towards human beings.
 - Explain how the activities of Animesh are similar to some activities of Swami Vivekananda.
 - ‘Unity can be developed through good thinking and work.’ This is a reflection of Swami Vivakananda’s teachings. Evaluate.

Chapter Eight

Hinduism and moral values

Moral lessons can be achieved through religious practices. The lessons in this book tell us that religion is very helpful in shaping up our character. The book also familiarise us with exemplary myths that reflect positive qualities such as sacrifice, patience and kindness. This chapter discusses open mindedness, helping others or charity, positive courage, tolerance along with some moral values and their importance. This chapter also discusses how to keep away from evil practices such as addiction and why we should hate this kind of activities.

After we have finished this unit, we will be able to

- explain the inter-relation between religion and moral practices.
- explain open-mindedness, charity, positive courage, tolerance and some other moral values in the light of Hinduism.
- explain the importance and formative ways of these moral values in the familial and social life.
- explain ideas of drugs and addiction.
- explain that addiction is an evil practice.
- narrate how to keep away from addiction.
- practice moral values in social life.

Lesson 1: The interrelation between religion and moral values

There are ten characteristics of religion such as truth, discipline, calmness, forgiveness etc. They are moral values too. The person who achieves these moral values and applies them to personal or social life is considered a religious man. People consider him a good person. A good person in the society is a knowledgeable person too.

Mere knowledge is not sufficient either. It should be applied. So the knowledge we learn from religious studies should be applied to our personal or social life. At the same time, when we apply the knowledge we earn from religious studies, our behavior shows moral values. Religion is not simple practice of some formalities or celebrations. Religion is in one side 'atmo-mokkha' i.e it is a means of self freedom and peace. On the other hand, it is for 'jagadhita' which means for the wellbeing of the universe. For example let us consider this statement- God stays in His creatures as soul. If we mechanically learn it and keep our learning without realizing or practicing, it has no benefits. However, if we hold this truth that God lives in human beings and then take care of other creatures as God, our learning is successful.

Here the religious teaching is to consider all creatures as important as God. The moral teaching here is—we should serve all creatures. Therefore it can be said that religion is a means of moral education. And without moral practice religion is nothing but formalities of ceremonies.

Moral teachings awaken religious consciousness and religion strengthens the basis of moral teachings. The following sections discuss the four moral values such as open mindedness, charity, positive courage, and tolerance in the light of Hinduism. It will also focus the relation between morality and religion.

Individual work: Explain the relation between religion and moral education with four examples.

Lesson 2: Greatness

The word 'liberal' or 'open-minded' means great, virtuous, or saint. Open mindedness denotes the quality of being liberal. So it can be said that open mindedness is the greatness of a person's character.

What do the saints do? They consider all equal. Everyone calls the same attention from them whether they are rich or poor, intellectual or illiterate. Members of all religions are same to them. It is said to define a liberal person - udarcharitanag tu bosudhoibo kutmbokom. It means all people are relatives to a liberal or open minded person. No one is alien to them. The poem 'manush jati' written by Satydranath Dutta is a burning example of open mindedness. In this poem the poet writes:

kalo ar dholo bahire kebol vitore sobar soman ranga

This kind of sense that doesn't allow distinction among human beings is called liberal attitude. This is a moral virtue and a part of religion. Liberalism develops a person's character. A liberal person never calculates what she or he has achieved; and does not repent for what is not achieved. That person finds pleasures in giving not in receiving. Liberalism fills the mind with mental peace.

On the other hand, thinking of personal interest narrows our mind. Then we just forget the benefits, happiness and well being of others in a society. It hampers progress and development of a society. So liberal attitude or open mindedness is also essential for a society.

There are many myths of liberalism in Hindu religious books. Rishi Boshisto showed liberal attitudes repeatedly to Bishwamitra. The sacrifice of Dadhichi Muni for the greater benefits of the deities will always be written in the golden words.

We too will show liberal attitudes in our behavior. We will be happy to see others happy; and unhappy to see others unhappy. Thus we will be able to strengthen our character. It will do well for the society too.

Individual work: Identify two liberal persons in the society you live in and narrate their qualities.

Lesson 3: Charity

Ratul is Abul's class mate. They are from the same locality. Abul's family consists of himself and his parents. One day Abul did not come to his school. It was very unusual for Abul. On the way back home from his school Ratul went to Abul's place and saw him suffering from fever. Abul's father was not at home. His mom was unable to go anywhere leaving the son alone. Then Ratul ran to call on a doctor quickly.

This attitude of Ratul for Abul's family is called charity.

Charity means doing something good to others. When something is done for others without expecting any result, it is called charity. In this regard, Kamini Roy writes in one of his poems:

*porer karone sartho diya bolie jobon mon sokol e dao tar moto sukh kothao ki ache
apnar kotha vuliya jao.*

We provide service to others through charity. As God resides in us as soul, we do service to God through charity. Charity makes a person liberal. It makes a person calm. It also produces a kind of self satisfaction for the person who practices it. It helps minimize other's sufferings. After the charity is done, a bridge of love is established between the person who does the charity and the person benefitted from it. This is why, there is a strong role of charity at individual or social level.

The Mahavarata says that once a demon started inflicting tortures on the people of a village. Its name was Bokrakkhos. Every day he attacked some human beings and some animals and killed them. He ate few of them and left the others. The villagers then requested the demon. "We will send one person everyday from our house. Please don't kill so many people". Bakrakkhosh agreed. It was a turn of a particular family one day. That day a member of that family must die. Then the Pandavs - Yudhistir, Bhishm, Arjuna, Nakula, and Sahadev were staying at that family with their mom, Kunti. Hearing them crying Kunti went forward.

Instead of the person supposed to go to Bakrakkhosh from that family, Vim went there. In fact, he was requested by his mother. He killed the demon and thus could save the man supposed to die that day. He could save the villagers too. It's a glaring example of charity.

We too will do charity. It will make our character more charming. People around us will be benefitted from it too.

Group work: Identify five example of charity and write about their impacts.

Lesson 4: Serving

Serving means to take care of others. In other worlds it means nourish. To serve means to nurse some one with great affection. It is a great quality of a human being. In scripture it is advised to serve mankind of Shiva. Because god is present in every creation of God. So to serve the trees, birds, and animals is also a part of serving the God. In this regard Swami Vivekananda said, "Jibe prem kore Jei Jon sei Jon sebhiche Ishwar"

The importance of serving in family life and social life is boundless. Every member of the family should take care of each other. Every great man of the society is great votary to mankind. If the doctors cure the diseases of the patients, they can be successful. To serve the poor, the distress and the orphan is to serve the God. Motherland is our mother. We have to serve the motherland like our mother.

We shall serve all the members of the family along with our relatives and other members of the society within our ability. We shall serve all the creations of God including the trees. We should be associated with various activities of voluntary.

Lesson 5: Courage

Courage means doing something without any fear. Courage means taking the risk of doing something good knowing that danger may befall. There is necessity of courage throughout the paths of our life. It increases our mental strengths. It teaches us how to face adverse situation courageously.

When someone powerful inflicts tortures on someone weak, then a positively courageous man stands beside or fights for the weak.

The Mahabharata says that Ovimonyu showed positive courage being a child. The Ramayana, the Mahabharata, the Purana show many examples of courage. Jona, Probir, Bidula proved positive courage to save their country.

The freedom fighters of our country risked their life against the killers of the then Pakistan. The freedom fighters didn't have many arms. But their heart was full of positive courage. This is why positive courage is one of the qualities of the patriotism. It is a part of religion too. It is a moral virtue as well.

Ovimonyu

Individual work: Identify four areas to show positive course and then write your roles in those places.

Lesson 6: Tolerance

We are human beings. As human beings we all have our own knowledge, intelligence, concepts, and opinions regarding life and the earth.

As I have my own opinions, another person has his or her opinions too. Generally we consider our own opinions correct. We do not respect others' opinions or neglect them. This leads us to conflicts. Sometimes these conflicts result in loss of life. But if we evaluate others' opinions in taking decisions, there should not be any conflicts. It is good for everyone as well.

Tolerance refers to the tendency of respecting other's opinions or have a patient attitude to them.

There are many ways and beliefs in the world. The same applies to religious practices. Tolerance is expressed when we respect other paths, opinions, or religions. This helps develop parity.

Shree Ramkrishna Paramahansa Dev says in plain language - Joto mot, toto path (many men many minds). There are many religions in the world as per the name of the worshipping objects, ways of worshipping, and practitioner's way of life. However, all leads to the same directions ultimately which is to gain God's blessings and ensure well beings for God's creations and the world.

Lord Krishna says to Arjuna in the Sree Modbhagavad Gita

Je jotha mang propodyante tangstathoibo vojamohyam

Mama bortomanubortyonte monusya partho sorbasha. (4/11)

It means that the way one worships me or through whatever images, I satisfy him or her satisfactorily in that way. Dear Partha (Arjuna), human beings seek for my help in their own ways.

Tolerance is one of the main components of social discipline. If we do not acknowledge other's path, the conflict is inevitable among different beliefs. If we believe that our own paths are the best, we neglect the paths of other believers.

Too much rigid opinions make room for blind religious views. Blindness turns to fanaticism or dangerous communal feelings. Therefore, tolerance is an important moral quality to be applied to our personal, social, or state affairs.

Individual work: Identify five areas to practice tolerance.

Lesson 7: The importance and ways of practice greatness, charity, and tolerance

Greatness makes a person noble. On the other hand charity brings well being in a society. Charity is also a virtue of a great person. In fact they are inter-related.

Religious practices are exercised through greatness and charity. It helps a person achieve morality.

Positive courage inspires one into good deeds. Punishing the wicked, working for justice, or saving own country require courage.

Tolerance is the main source of peace and parity. It ensures discipline in a society. Meanness and communal feelings arise when there is lack of tolerance in a society. Therefore, tolerance is extremely needed to ensure peace, parity, and discipline.

Individual work: Give arguments in favour of the statement—open-mindedness, charity, good courage and flourished human character.

Lesson 8: Use of drugs as an immoral activity

Now we are going to study an immoral activity which is immoral. It refers to drug addiction. We should stay apart from it.

Drug includes a list of things that creates addiction. Some of them are - cigarette, tobacco, wine, marijuana, heroine, pathedrine, phensedyl etc. Some sleeping pills that cause numbness are also used as drugs too.

Addiction to drugs

It refers to dependence on drugs and excessive interest in taking these things.

Why is addiction immoral?

Addiction is immoral as it affects a person bodily and mentally. Besides it ruins a person financially and brings about misfortunes for a family or a society.

Impacts on the body

Addiction causes many kinds of diseases such as less appetite, stomach upset, indigestion, malnutrition, damage of respiratory system, permanent cough, asthma, lung cancer etc. Apart from all these it causes heart diseases and mal-functioning of kidneys.

Mental damage

Drugs pave the ways for addiction. Due to addiction a person loses his capacity to judge good or bad. In such a situation a person can do and undo everything.

Financial loss

Addiction involves sufficient money. An addict collects this money by pressurizing parents or other relatives. Sometimes they adopt unfair means to collect this money. It may lead to more immoral activities.

Addiction brings misfortune for a family and a society. It destroys peace in a family. Family members are anxious for an addict as she or he may do anything anytime. It has bad impacts on a society.

Addiction is a great sin in Hinduism. An addict is the worst sinner. Even if anyone keeps in touch with an addict, she or he is also a sinner. So we must keep away from addiction.

Some ways to keep away from addiction:

1. Follow the religious restrictions that addiction is a great sin.
2. Addiction is immoral. Therefore won't support any immoral activity.
3. Do not keep any kind of relation with a drug addict.
4. Promise :

Say no to drugs

Follow the ethics and the religious teachings.

Exercise

Fill in the gaps

1. We need tothe knowledge we have achieved.
2. Open mindednesshuman characters.
3. Positive courage increases
4. Tolerance is one of the factors to establish.....
5. We willthe religious restriction that addiction is one of the worst sins.

Match the phrases in the left with those of the right columns.

Left column	Right column
1. Religion is not	unlimited.
2. All are relatives to	several kinds of diseases.
3. Charity involves	only mere celebrations
4. Addiction causes	an open minded person.
	a kind of mental satisfaction.

Answer the following questions in brief.

1. Explain with examples – moral teaching flourishes good feelings.
2. Explain open mindedness with examples.
3. Explain with examples how to do charity.
4. Explain with examples the importance of positive courage in establishing justice.
5. What harms can be caused by addiction?

Answer the following questions

1. Explain with examples the relations between religion and moral teaching.
2. Analyse the need of practicing open mindedness at personal and social life.
3. Identify the areas of charity in social life and how to apply them.
4. Analyse the socio economic effects of addiction.

Multiple choice questions

1. The spirit of self sacrifice is

- | | |
|-----------------|--------------------|
| a. charity | b. open mindedness |
| c. truthfulness | d. dutifulness |

2. Positive courage is

- i. not to get afraid of any work.
- ii. to face the risk with the cost of own life.
- iii. to fight for the weak for the cause of the right thing.

3. Which of the below is right?

- | | |
|--------------|-------------------|
| a. i and ii | b. ii and iii |
| c. i and iii | d. i, ii, and iii |

4. Joto moth toto path it's a statement of –

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| a. Shree Ram Krishna Paramahansa Dev | b. Shree Ramkrishna ad the text |
| c. Shree Bijoy Krishna | d. Shree ram Prasad |

Read the following text and answer questions number 5 and 6.

Sadhan Mukharjee invited all villagers at a lunch on the Bijoya Dashami during the last Durga Puja celebration. He dined with them. It made his friend Sukhen Chakravarty surprised. But he was influenced to follow the example.

5. From the above text, which quality is expressed

- | | |
|--------------------|-----------------|
| a. forgiveness | b. good courage |
| c. open mindedness | d. charity |

6. What can Sukhen do to exercise that quality?

- He should not punish anyone for mistakes.
- He should face dangers with the cost of his own life.
- He should give all human beings equal status.
- He should sacrifice his own interest for others' benefits.

Creative questions

- Purabi Dutta has happy life with her in-laws. Her husband works abroad. She maintains her family with patience. She evaluates other's opinions in family affairs such as family members' education, selling and buying of lands, marriage etc. Everybody likes and respects her for that.
 - How many characteristics are there in religion?
 - Explain – Religion is a means of moral education.
 - What quality of Purabi Dutta's character is reflected here? Explain in the light of moral values.
 - Evaluate the role of that quality in ensuring family or social discipline.

2018

Academic Year

7- Hindu

জীবনের উদ্দেশ্য ঈশ্বর লাভ

- শ্রী রামকৃষ্ণ

শিক্ষা ও জ্ঞান অর্জনের মাধ্যমেই জীবনে সাফল্য অর্জন করতে হবে

- মাননীয় প্রধানমন্ত্রী শেখ হাসিনা

নারী ও শিশু নির্যাতনের ঘটনা ঘটলে প্রতিকার ও প্রতিরোধের জন্য ন্যাশনাল হেল্পলাইন সেন্টারে
১০৯ নম্বর-এ (টোল ফ্রি, ২৪ ঘণ্টা সার্ভিস) ফোন করুন

For free distribution from academic year 2010 by the Government of the People's Republic of Bangladesh